The instant death of Edwin B. Bakenhus, 30, department manager for Sears and Roebuck company and resident of South Prospect avenue, Route 1, Box 227, Santa Ana, in a traffic crash at Bolsa last night, and the death of 15-year-old Alta R. Hunter at her home, 312 South Glassell, Orange, at 5 p. m. yesterday, from injuries received in a car crash January 2, brought the Orange county traffic death toll to 32 today.

Following the accident at 10:15 p. m. in which Bakenhus was killed and in which four other persons were injured, William Haan, 52, of 413 West Fourth street, Santa Ana, was arrested by California Highway Patrol Officers John Turton and Harry Wild on charges of negligent homicide and felony drunk driving.

The accident, a head-on collision in which the Bakenhus car front was folded in like an accordion, occurred as Bakenhus was driving easterly on First street two-tenths of a mile west of Wright street and in front of Sully's cafe. He was returning from Long Beach, Haan, traveling westerly on First street, authorities reported, was attempting to turn into the Sully's cafe parking yard when the collision occurred.

Others injured
Clara E. Souder, 23, whose address was given as 503 South Flower, Santa Ana, and 2919 Vista street, Long Beach, and Roy Culwell, 39, 10238 Cresta Drive, Culver City, riding with Bakenhus, were injured. Miss Souder being treated at St. Joseph hospital for abrasions. Culwell suffered superficial injuries.

Haan suffered leg injury and bruised head. He was pronounced "slightly" intoxicated by a doctor. His companion, Oscar Gottenberg, 50, 413 West Fourth, Santa Ana, suffered severe scalp wound which required the taking of 50 stitches to sew up. He was pronounced "very" drunk. Both were treated at county hospital. Haan will be booked on the two felony charges upon his release from the hospital.

State Inquest
Bakenhus, officials reported, was thrown from his car, which overturned and plumed him beneath it. An inquest is pending at Winbigler funeral chapel, Coroner Earl Abbey said. Among survivors are Mr. Bakenhus's wife, Eleanor B. Bakenhus; brothers, Paul E. Orange, and Herman E. Azusa; sisters, Hulda Kraft, Anaheim; Eleanor Knapp, Anaheim, and Teresa Bonner, Garden Grove.

Other Accidents
Mrs. Iva Covey, 69, Costa Mesa, was injured on Coast highway half a mile east of Huntington Beach boulevard yesterday afternoon when cars driven by Frank Bayliss, 26, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Eleanor Finney, 59, of Orange county's Camp Ro-Ki-Li, Seven Oaks, San Bernardino county, collided.

Walter Rusk, young cyclist, 2631 South Main, suffered slight injuries to ear and head last evening at First and Main when his bicycle collided with a car driven by Melvin Davis, Costa Mesa. Witnesses told police Davis had stopped his car before the accident and Rusk ran into it. At 17th and Main yesterday afternoon, cars of E. W. Ronk, Garden Grove, and Koso Torii Hara, Los Angeles, collided without injuries. Ronk had stopped at a signal when Hara's car collided with the rear of Ronk's car.

PWA Presses Spend Drive

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(UP)—The Public Works Administration today pressed its recovery drive another step forward with announcement of 279 additional approved projects carrying a total construction value of $61,752,437.

It was the third list of projects released by PWA since President Roosevelt signed the $3,753,000,000 recovery bill and brought the total worth of approved projects to $210,546,332. Of this sum the government's contribution is $107,406,000 for a total of 869 projects.

The largest of today's projects was a bridge across the Mississippi from East St. Louis, Ill., to St. Louis, Mo., to cost $5,500,000, of which the government is contributing a $2,475,000 grant.

Bullish Market
Encouraged by a bullish stock market and the optimistic statements of President Roosevelt and other New Deal leaders, administration officials speeded all phases of the multi-billion dollar recovery.

JAPAN DECIDES ON BIG SCALE INVASION

SHANGHAI, June 23.—(UP)—Japan has decided finally on a big scale invasion of Southern China, and the coincident occupation of Hainan Island which dominates the coast of French Indo-China, military quarters reported today.

Dispatches indicated that farther north there was a stalemate. Yellow river floods had caused a retreat by the Japanese on the central front. Persistent rains consequent minor floods, endless machine gun pillboxes, hundreds of mines, a dozen obstructive embankments, and 30 Chinese divisions seemed to have halted the new drive toward Hankow along the Yangtze river.

Coast Towns Shelled
Hong Kong dispatches said today that Japanese warships were shelling the coast near Swatow and that there was every expectation that a landing party would be put ashore to occupy Swatow at once.

A campaign in the far south would take Japanese operations 600 miles farther south and would mean a war front extending more than 1200 miles from north to south and more than 500 miles from east to west.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 23.—(UP)—The Pacific coast division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science will hold its 1939 meeting at Stanford University, Palo Alto, it was announced today.

It was also revealed the scientists had decided to hold their 1940 sessions at the University of Washington, Seattle.

Moratorium On Mines Extended

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(UP)—Presidential action was expected today on a bill extending for another year the moratorium on assessment work on mining claims held by location in the United States and Alaska.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Hiram Johnson, R., Calif., and Rep. John R. Murdock, D., Ariz., was approved in the final day of the 75th Congress.

Suspension of assessment work first was authorized by Congress in 1932 on the contention that depression conditions made it a hardship to require $100 in work or improvements each year on an unpatented mining claim. The new bill would extend the moratorium until July 1, 1939.

START PRISON PROJECT
SACRAMENTO, June 23.—(UP)—Another step in the building of a new Southern California prison at China was completed today with the issuance of state warrants totaling $600,000 for payment of the site purchased from the American Crystal Sugar company.

Farmers Boycott San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—(UP)—An unauthorized boycott against San Francisco because of labor troubles exists among farmers in Northern California and neighboring states, a three-man investigating board told the employers' committee of 43 yesterday.

"The trend of the boycott is on the increase, and there is danger that it may be definitely organized," the board reported. G. Stanleigh Arnold, W. M. Simmons and Warren Olney jr., comprised the inquiry group.

Tracing the problem back to the maritime strikes of 1934 and 1936, the board said there was a growing belief that in the long run the farmer can market his produce more economically by avoiding San Francisco.

Big Scale Quiz
It was the first subpoena issued in the investigation, which is said to be one of the biggest of its kind in recent years. One fourth of the income to the nation's agricultural districts is said to be represented by milk and its by-products.

YOUNG ADVENTURERS NABBED IN MEXICO

PUERTO VALLARTA, West Coast of Mexico, June 23.—(UP)—The $25,000 yacht Tira was safely moored in this old smugglers harbor today and the three Santa Cruz, Cal., high school boys who sailed away on it May 25 without anybody's permission were awaiting an official decree which would decide the price they must pay for their adventure.

The boys—Lyle Tara, 17, James Henninger, 17, and Bill Grace, 16—conducted their expedition, which savored of the pirate tales they enjoyed reading, for more than 2000 miles down the west coast of the North American continent before making port in the face of a gathering tropical storm.

Notified Officials
Quietly the Tira, which is owned by Lew Poote, well-to-do chain store operator, slipped out of Santa Cruz harbor the evening of May 25. Friends and relatives of the boys had heard them talk often of sailing to the South Seas. When it was discovered they had departed, United States authorities were notified.

Missing Girl Is Located

HOLLYWOOD, June 23.—(UP)—Searching parties in the Hollywood hills seeking 17-year-old Helen May Milligan, missing since Monday, were called off today after the girl's mother, Mrs. Thomas E. Milligan, received a postcard from her daughter.

The girl in her postcard message, told her mother she had obtained employment in Pasadena and was well and safe.

Deputy sheriffs had led a search of the Hollywood hills after two women reported finding a pink slip which Mrs. Milligan identified as the same type worn by her daughter. The discovery led to the belief the girl might have been carried into the hills by an abductor.

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 23.—(UP)—Two truckers sped across the Arizona desert with an iron lung today in a desperate attempt to save the life of a Navajo Indian girl who is unable to breathe by herself because of paralysis resulting from a fall.

Pending arrival of the lung from her condition became critical.

Dr. C. G. Salisbury, superintendent of Sage Memorial Hospital at Ganados on the reservation, dispatched the truckers, Albert and Golden Farr, brothers, at midnight to Phoenix to get the state's iron lung.

Romeo and Juliet Revived

Gov. E. D. Rivers of Georgia and his daughter Jerry, at top, draw the Capulet role in Georgia's dramatic Romeo-and-Juliet revival. Daughter Jerry insists political rivalries won't keep her from dating Jack Mangham, Jr., son of Governor Rivers to interfere with his romancing with the governor's rival candidate for governor.

J. J. Mangham, above, with his son Jack, Jr., draw the Montague role in Georgia's political-romantic battle. Jack, Jr., hasn't allowed his father's political estrangement from Governor Rivers to interfere with his romancing with the governor's daughter, Jerry.

"NO REGRETS," SAYS MAN WHO KILLED PAIR IN L. A. COURT

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—(UP)—Arthur Emil Hansen, who came west from his O'Connell, S. D. farm home 11 years ago with $35,000 and lost it in land deals, showed no remorse today for the slaying of two attorneys whom he charged had cheated him.

"I'm glad of it," he said as he smoked his corn cob pipe. "I had nothing to lose. They swindled me out of everything I owned and when I saw them in court whispering together, trying to do me more harm, I went crazy. I don't regret a thing. I am glad I put them where they can't hurt anyone else."

Selznick and his entire production crew will move from the United Artists lot to M-G-M for the one picture. In return, Selznick will get use of Gable and Miss Shearer, two of the big box office names of the movie industry.

Allocate Funds For Projects

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(UP)—Secretary of War Harry Woodring today announced additional allocations for rivers and harbors work under the war department civil functions bill. The new allocations supplement approximately $120,000,000 in allotments made last week.

The war department funds were assigned for specific projects as a new step in the broad recovery drive being pushed by the administration. The rivers and harbors work is entirely distinct from the hundreds of projects being approved by the public work administration.

Allocations included: Humboldt harbor and bay, Calif., $238,000; San Joaquin river, Calif., $195,000; Suisun, Calif., $139,500; Sacramento river, Calif., debris restraining dams, $1,000,000.

Man Leaps From River Drawbridge

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 23.—(UP)—No trace was found today of a good looking young man who told a passerby "I have to kill myself one way or another" and then leaped into the Sacramento river from the towering M street drawbridge last night.

Pat Murphy, 30, transient, said the man handed him a package of cigarettes and a necktie pin before vaulting the bridge railing. Murphy tried to attract the attention of women in a boat below but they failed to hear him and cruised on past the spot where the stranger disappeared in the water.

MAX SUFFERS BACK INJURY

BY HENRY SUPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, June 23.—(UP)—Max Schmeling suffered a painful but not serious back injury when he was knocked out in the first round last night by Joe Louis in their heavyweight championship fight, his physician said today.

The report of Dr. Robert Emery Brennan, surgeon general of the hospital, said:

Prospects Favorable
"Mr. Schmeling has suffered a fracture of the transverse process of the third and fourth lumbar vertebrae with a hemorrhage of the lumbar muscles. Prognosis is favorable."

Attendants of the hospital said that the bulletin indicated that Schmeling's condition was not dangerous. They estimated that he would have to remain in the hospital for several days at least.

Schmeling—strapped in a hospital bed with a painful back injury—demanded another chance to win the championship from Louis.

"Deserves a Return Match"
His manager, Joe Jacobs, said "Max was paralyzed in the first round and was unable to make a proper showing. He and I think he deserves a return fight with Louis."

Schmeling will remain in bed until July 2. He then will be taken by ambulance to the steamship Bremen to recuperate in Germany.

Even after the surgeon's report, there was no ascertaining how the injury occurred. There were some who thought it was a direct result of the reported kidney punch about which Manager Jacobs raised a cry of "foul."

Debate Foul Claim
Another belief, and this was a serious one of veteran boxing men, was that Schmeling injured his back when he was floored the second time.

Boxing men generally debated Manager Joe Jacobs' foul claim. This present rendition of the oft-heard "we wuz robbed" was a result of the hammering Schmeling received as he was draped on the ropes.

Bill Brown, member of the state athletic commission, said that a kidney punch was not necessarily a foul.

Legal Punch
"A kidney punch delivered from the clear is not foul," he said. "A kidney punch, however, is illegal when it is deliberately made such as during a partial clinch. But any punch delivered when the men are in the clear is perfectly legal so long as it lands above the waist line."

Schmeling asked that he be allowed all possible rest. He ordered his telephone discontinued and it was used only when he put in a call to Germany. It was assumed that he had telephoned his wife, Anny Ondra, movie actress.

Takes Life Easy
Meanwhile, Champion Joe Louis took life easy. He had been the coolest person in the ball park when the fight was over.

Later in Louis' dressing room, policemen, photographers, reporters and friends milled around the champion.

And Louis sat on a rubbing table—blinking his eyes; answering hundreds of questions as tersely as possible.

Joe said little—his fists had already spoken.

"Maxie Next"
"I guess I fight Maxie Baer next," he said.

He blinched.

"I went after him early an' I guess I got him."

"I knew I had him when that first right landed."

"No, I didn't hit him low when he was on the ropes."

"I was stronger than I was two years ago. That night I made the mistake of letting Schmeling get

Union Men Warn
Farm Group

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 23.—(UP)—Longshoremen from San Francisco and Stockton may be called to Sacramento next Monday if farmers attempt to reopen the picketed Rice Growers Association mill here, Frank E. Thompson, union executive, announced today.

Thompson said the action was approved last night by a vote of the executive board of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, a C.I.O. affiliate.

The union official blamed the Associated Farmers of California for organizing a "strikebreaking" movement for the reopening of the mill. He said if a farm delegation arrives from Richvale, in Butte county, he will reinforce local pickets with longshoremen. Thompson and a committee were to confer late today with Sheriff James Monroe of Yolo county to seek his influence in preventing the farmers from breaking the strike.

The mill closed April 18 and has been picketed since that time.

P.W.A. Presses Spending Program

Every program. They expected that the president's fireside chat tomorrow would add new incentive to efforts being made to put men back to work and to increase the volume of business.

Release 590 Projects
PWA entered the second of three consecutive days in which it will offer funds from its portion of the building-spending fund designed eventually to create 600,000,000 of public works projects. Yesterday, 590 projects, affecting nearly every state and requiring $77,814,000 of federal money, were released. With the local share added, the completed cost of these will be approximately $148,795,000. A similar number of allotments will be announced today.

Two Factors
Two other factors appeared likely to help government officials in their effort to make business men and industrialists share their optimistic outlook:

1.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Marriner S. Eccles have agreed upon a plan to relax somewhat and make uniform bank examination requirements. This move is expected to make bankers feel more inclined to grant loans to small businesses. The agreement will be presented to Mr. Roosevelt when he returns from his Hyde Park, N. Y., home Friday morning.

Recovery Seen
2.—Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, in a 1938 fiscal year statement, said that the depression "seems to be scraping bottom." This was made one day after the President had remarked that he had felt a few drops of recovery rain and expected a "much needed shower" before long. Roper was understood to have made his statement after consulting economists in his department's foreign and domestic commerce, and census bureaus. Mr. Roosevelt often relies upon these same advisers for information on the general economic situation.

Adventurers Nabbed In Mexico

For a week the coast guard conducted a widespread search by sea and air, but the Tira had vanished, and since the youths had spoken of Cocos Island, far south in the Pacific, it was believed the Tira crew was pointed in that direction.

Order Yacht Held

Yesterday dawn clouds gathered over the sea off Mexico, and port authorities here saw the trim craft making for a mooring. An examination of the vessel's papers showed them to be out of order and a few inquiries revealed a story which seldom has been equaled in recent sea history. The authorities ordered the yacht tied up. Puerto Vallarta is a village of about 2000 population. It drouses under the tropical sun on the shore of Bandera Bay. It is surrounded by mountain ranges and there are no roads leading into the town from the outside world. During the Cristero revolution the port was used by rebel forces as an arms-smuggling base. Running before the oncoming disturbance the boys, who knew their charts well, headed for it as the only safe harbor along this part of the coast.

his own records" and said his offices also were headquarters for the motor carriers' association and the west coast brewers' magazine. In the subpoena, summoning him to appear before the grand jury Samish was ordered to produce the following records from 1928 to 1938:

All bank deposits, personal and for his firm; bank statements, cancelled checks, ledgers, contributions to political campaigns, payments to legislators and all other groups. The lobbyist last night was found guilty of contempt charges growing out of an earlier refusal to appear at the inquiry.

10 YEAR TERMS ARE GIVEN TWO ROBBERS

Two Orange county robbers were given ten-year sentences in San Quentin by the state board of prison paroles, according to reports filed here today with superior court in the cases of Russell Stambaugh and Eugene P. Andres.

Stambaugh, 37, navy deserter, and Andres, both having long criminal records, were sentenced from Orange county in 1935 for first-degree robbery, in connection with a $3000 hold-up of Harvey Wineberg, employee of the J. C. Penney company, in Santa Ana, August 4, 1934. Wineberg was robbed as he was about to drop the money through the street depository of the First National Bank.

Stambaugh pleaded guilty, but Andres demanded trial and then appealed unsuccessfully from his conviction.

The jump on me. This time I went after him from the start and got him early before he could get to me."

Body Punch Did It
"It was a right to the body that finally finished him. "I got my revenge. "I want Max Baer next. Guess he might put up a good fight. They tell me that baby of his had made a different man of him."

Joe spent the night at the home of some friends in New York. His wife, Marva Trotter, did not see the fight.

Louis will return to Chicago tomorrow, after probably attending today's session of the boxing commission.

"We Wuz Robbed"
Over in Schmeling's dressing room there was the cry "we wuz robbed."

"It was a foul," Schmeling said, referring to one of Louis' blows. Joe Jacobs, Max's manager, chimed in with:

"That kidney punch paralyzed him. That's an illegal blow, in the kidneys."

It was Jacobs who screamed "we wuz robbed" the night Schmeling lost the title to Jack Sharkey.

Referee Arthur Donovan said that while Schmeling was hit in the kidneys "it was a fair punch."

The action against the association was at request of Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Data gathered in the investigation, part of the justice department's trust busting program, was expected to be presented to a special federal grand jury July 5.

Investigate Prices
Reliable sources said the inquiry seeks to determine whether nation-wide milk interests have combined to monopolize the dairy industry in violation of federal anti-trust laws. The investigation is said to have been broadened to include all phases of the milk situation from farm to consumer and including the manufacture of by-products of milk.

Chief point of the inquiry, it was said, has been the wide difference between the price received by the farmer for his milk and that paid by the housewife for doorstep delivery. The base price paid to farmers for milk delivered to receiving stations, loading platforms or country plants was listed as $3.74 cents per quart, while the price of milk delivered to the doorstep was listed as 12 cents per quart.

GETS HARVARD DEGREE
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 23.—(UP)—Walt Disney, who did not finish high school, today received his second honorary master of arts degree within 24 hours. Harvard University awarded it to him as Yale did yesterday.

Bancroft Papers Taken Out Here

The nomination petition of Philip Bancroft, of Walnut Creek, candidate for the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate, was filed in County Clerk Basil J. Smith's office late yesterday by Arthur J. McFadden, of Santa Ana, sponsor of Bancroft's candidacy in Orange county.

McFadden, president of the California Chamber of Commerce and the state pro-rate commission, is a college classmate of Bancroft. Signing Bancroft's petition with him were A. M. Bradley, R. M. Cruikshank and C. E. Sprague, all Santa Ana attorneys, and James A. Smiley, rancher.

Report Children Bitten by Dogs

Two reports of children being bitten by dogs reached police here yesterday. At 7:45 p. m. Mrs. Evangeline Duckett, 823 East First, reported Richard Duckett, 11, was bitten by a wire haired terrier at 824 East Second. The boy was taken to a doctor for treatment and Poundmaster Harold Pickering called to investigate.

At 7:05 p. m. H. U. Bray, 305 South Ross, reported his daughter Annelia, 2, was bitten by a dog at 424 West Pine, but not badly. She was treated by a doctor and Pickering was called to investigate.

Church Societies

Class Entertained
A novel entertainment plan was introduced at the latest meeting of Delta Alpha class of First M. E. church, when the Misses Elizabeth Sherman, Laura Sherman and Cora Craig were hostesses in the church social hall.

This entertainment provided a series of interesting talks, when each one present was asked to recount a newspaper article of importance, or a talk or radio program which had seemed especially striking. The talks followed a short business meeting conducted by the class president, Miss Irma De Barr. The Rev. C. E. Holman, pastor of the church, offered prayer.

The hostesses had planned a games program as well, and later in the evening served light refreshments. They had arranged large clusters of hydrangeas and other flowers in decorating the rooms.

Among guests entertained were Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Holman, Mrs. Sarah Brown Mills, the Misses Mary Ryan, Verna Goodwin and Minnie Wade. Delta Alpha members present were Mrs. Bertha Murphy, the Misses Tessie Winter, Edna Knoll, Verna Knoll, Maud Thomas, Alta Thomas, Bertha Briney, Olive Briney, Hattie Cornett, Benah Cornett, Lilley Cornett, Lena Cofer, Anna Canfield, Clara Barnes, Charlotte, Carlhart, Clara Paddock, Minnie Wild, Irene DeBarr, Kezia Hay and the hostesses, the Misses Elizabeth Sherman, Laura Sherman and Cora Craig.

Launch Milk Monopoly Quiz

Plans for installation of new officers were made yesterday by executive board members of First Baptist Women's society, at a meeting in the A. M. Robinson summer home at Newport. Associated with Mrs. Robinson in hostess duties were Mesdames Kenneth King, Frank Miller and Robert Chew.

Luncheon was a pleasant introduction to the afternoon business meeting, and had the further attraction of flowers and the charm of the seaside setting. Mrs. Russell Crouse presided over the after-luncheon meeting, when all details were perfected for the installation. This will come next Wednesday at the all-day meeting of the society in the church parlors.

Board members present in addition to the four hostesses and the president were the Misses Lula Minter, Gertrude Minor, Irene Catland, Mesdames Harry Harlow, M. M. Holmes, Jessie White, R. E. Coulter, Warren Brakeman, C. A. Harp, Albert Hill, Roscoe Dietrich, Eugene McBurney, Earl Morris, O. S. Catland, W. B. Lockett, E. A. Bell and John J. Vernon, with a group of children including Betty Louise Vernon, Helen Lockett, Bill Lockett, Anne Avon Chew and Bobbie Chew.

Woman Is Ordered To Pay $2000 Note

After Mrs. Emelda Buell had denied signing a $2000 note, upon which George A. Miller had brought suit against her, Superior Judge Raymond McIntosh, of Downeyville, temporarily residing in Santa Ana, gave Miller judgment for $2040.39 and $175 attorney fees.

But the judge didn't let it go at that. After comparing the signature on the note with the assertedly admitted signature of Mrs. Buell appearing on other documents introduced by Miller, the court ordered a transcript of Mrs. Buell's testimony prepared and submitted to the district attorney for investigation.

Old Timers Will Picnic On Sunday

The Old Timers of Orange county who always usher out the month of June with one of the notable annual gatherings of the county, today were preparing to assemble, as usual, at Irvine park next Sunday.

An unwelcome duty of the Old Timers Association this year will be to elect a new president to succeed the late County Clerk J. M. Backs, who had headed the organization for several years.

Arrangements for this year's annual picnic are being handled by Elmer B. Burns, of Santa Ana, veteran secretary of the organization. A basket lunch will be served at noon. No set program is arranged for these meetings, the time being spent in general reminiscing and renewal of old friendships.

The Old Timers picnic usually draws about 5000 people to the park, many from outside the state.

SCOUTS WARNED OF DANGER
When a citizen reported the Boy Scouts selling fire crackers at Washington and Main streets yesterday afternoon were lighting some of them and tossing them into the street where cars were passing, police contacted Scoutmaster F. P. Nicky, Jr., and Nicky immediately told his troopers of the danger.

Five experimental stations to promote the development of Alaskan are maintained there by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Seek To Block Spy Stories

NEW YORK, June 23.—(UP)—Federal Judge Murray Hulbert reserved decision today on application by the government for a temporary injunction to restrain publication of a series of stories about the current spy case by Leon G. Turrou, G-man who directed the investigation.

The judge was expected to hand down a ruling before the end of the week. The New York Post, which had announced publication of Turrou's first story for today, said it was withholding publication pending the decision.

Assistant U. S. Attorney John F. Burke argued before Judge Hulbert that publication of the stories would be an act in "contempt of court and an obstruction of the administration of justice."

Property Suit Is Settled Outside

A suit brought by Nova Lee De Sombre against Roy R. Brubaker and Mary T. Brubaker, to forfeit their rights in property purchased from her east of Anaheim, also $500 and other moneys paid upon the property, was settled to trial in superior court. A stipulated judgment in favor of the plaintiff was entered.

The Brubakers, answering the suit, stated that the freeze of January, 1937, destroyed their orange crop and they were ready to vacate the property then, but were encouraged by the plaintiff to remain. When they tendered her $90 for interest, subsequently, she refused it, they stated. Her reason, they said they believed, was that she had heard that oil prospecting was being carried on in the vicinity.

Navy Prepares For Mass Flight

SAN DIEGO, June 23.—(UP)—One of the most ambitious mass flights, in number of planes involved, in U. S. naval history, will get under way here Saturday, it was revealed today.

Forty-eight of the powerful, long-range PBV-type patrol bombers will begin taking off from the harbor here at about 5:30 a. m., it was revealed, and by 8 a. m., the big crafts will be roaring along in formation over the Pacific headed for Seattle, where they are due to arrive Saturday evening.

War Time Economy Plan Imposed

TOKYO, June 23.—(UP)—The government imposed a drastic war time economy plan on the nation today and pledged itself to win the war in China regardless of the time it would take. The emergency plan includes provision for price fixing, compulsory use of substitute materials and rigidly controlled domestic consumption to conserve resources and point every man, woman and child in the nation toward victory.

Today's decrees provide for restriction of domestic use of steel, pig iron, gold, platinum, copper, brass, zinc, lead, tin, nickel, aluminum, quicksilver, aluminum, asbestos, cotton, wool, paper and pulp leather, lumber, oil, benzene, rubber, acids and other materials necessary to munitions manufacture and other essential ends.

Police radio broadcasting resulted early today in the arrest and jailing of Alfred Ryan, 28, Finley hotel, on a drunk driving charge.

Officials of the Newport Beach district telephoned to the sheriff's office at 3 a. m. today, stating that a drunk driver had just left the Arches and was traveling toward Santa Ana. Adams and Cornish Roehm of Santa Ana police, nabbed Ryan at Main street and Delhi road. He was pronounced "moderately" intoxicated, by a local doctor and booked on drunk driving and drunk charges.

"BURLESQUE" SEEN AT LIONS MEETING

In a travesty program in which programs presented during the past year were burlesqued and the dinner was served in reverse, members of the Santa Ana Lions club closed the current year of the organization.

Chairman C. W. Harrison introduced the various members of the club who took part in humorously re-enacting programs that had been presented. The dinner, starting with dessert ended, appropriately with sea-food cocktail.

Members who took part in the program, one of the most enthusiastically received during the year, were: Franklin West, E. M. Sundquist, Earl Abbey, James Utt, Burr Shafer and A. G. Green.

Installation of officers for the coming year will be held at 7 p. m. Thursday at the Santa Ana County Club.

But in international importance the possible occupation of Hainan Island off the South China coast overshadowed anything else.

The island is of strategic importance in that it not only lies off French Indo-China but also flanks the ocean routes from the Indian ocean to China via British Singapore.

Comments from Japanese sources make it clear that Japan would expect France to protest strongly if the islands were occupied.

Japanese forces have occupied Namou Island, off Swatow, under a protective barrage of 10 warships and in face of ferocious Chinese resistance.

TRIBES AT EXHIBIT

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The 1938 Golden Gate and International exposition will give visitors the first opportunity to see a comprehensive picture of all the Indian life and tribes that still remain in the United States.

The gathering together of representatives of these tribes will be made by the department of the interior and the exhibition will be staged in a giant steel and concrete tepee. It is expected to be the biggest powwow ever held in the United States.

The exhibition will show the present status of the American Indians, also what lines of work and occupation they are following.

The Navajos, who live in sod and log hogan in the painted desert country of the southwest, will be shown in their present favorite occupation of hammering out silver ornaments.

Pattern To Be Made
The Pueblos of the Rio Grande valley will be shown at their occupation of making pottery of the clay which they rouge from the river's banks.

The Cheyennes of the Great Plains, who once passed their lives almost exclusively in buffalo hunting, will be shown at their relegated vocation of moccasins and bead work.

The California tribes of the Yokor and Pomo Indians, who once inhabited the great redwood forests, but are now reduced to being reed and grass baskets, will be present.

From North Carolina will come the Cherokee inhabitants of the Great Smokies to display their modern occupation of carving wooden vessels and spoons.

Alaska To Be Represented
Even Alaska will be represented by members of the Haidas and Thin tribes. They are engaged principally in fishing.

Aside from the fact that the gathering of these various tribes together for the first time will give the American public a better idea of them as a whole, it is expected that it will help the Indians in bringing about a rebirth of their arts and crafts, and popularize Indian designs so that the Indians themselves may become more self-supporting.

The ceremonies, music, dances and handicraft of the six major Indian units will be presented as follows: The fishermen of the northwest coast; the seed and root gatherers of California; the buffalo hunters of the Great Plains; the woodmen of the east coast; the corn planters of the southwest and the Navajo shepherd.

Deep Sea Fishing Good

ANGLERS HAVE BEST SPORT IN CURRENT RUN

A tour of inspection made last week along the Orange county coast line from Anaheim Landing to San Clemente to check fishing conditions revealed that anglers are enjoying the best sport since the first runs of the season started.

With the exception of one day, the first of the current season, when bait was not as plentiful as it might have been, the fishing grounds have been producing good catches for followers of the sport.

2,000 Fish
Top catch of the vicinity reported was on last Saturday when the three boats operated by Darrell King, of Newport Beach, brought in more than 2,000 fish.

The catch was divided into 900 yellowtail, 115 barracuda and 53 bass. The big yellowtail catch was aboard the Sunshine and totaled 410 fish.

Other boat operators along the coast reported similar catches although none in such large quantities as were reported by King boats. Cy Cook, aboard the Sunshine on Saturday, landed 35 yellowtail and 22 barracuda to top the catches for the day.

Thousands of anglers are spending week-ends at local inland lakes, streams and reservoirs and securing fair catches of trout, bass and crappie, especially the latter in Big Bear, Sherwood and San Diego lakes.

The landing of trout has been confined to Big Bear, Arrowhead, Jenks and Jackson lakes, and in the lower lakes and streams of the High Sierra country. Fair catches are reported locally, while the waters of the Sierras, especially Hot Creek, Owens River and June Lake waters have been returning good catches of sizable trout. The Owens River owing to heavy run-off of waters from the mountain areas has risen to a point far exceeding the levels of last year.

Some of the higher streams and lakes in the Sierras are open and anglers trying these waters have been successful in landing limit. Fishing conditions as a whole throughout the High Sierra area are improving. The heavy run-off of waters is slowing down and the streams are clearing.

All indications point to exceptionally good fishing from now until the end of the season. During the past week end hundreds of anglers headed into the Sierra country and reports coming in indicate that they are having exceptionally good luck.

BENEFITS OF COAST FISHING RECOUNTED

Local deep-sea piscatorial activities within the past few years have risen from the novelty stage to one of the most varied and interesting sports in the Southland.

Outside of the sport of it, the effect of this recreation on the physical make-up of those indulging is exceptionally beneficial. The ocean seems to have some strange alchemy that is said to repair the innards of man, furnishing rest and body rejuvenation.

Energizing and restorative is the tonic promised those who spend a day aboard some barge or live-bait boat. For in so doing they will find relaxation and plenty of sport and when the day is over they will return to their homes with a real appetite.

Good Season Ahead
From information gathered during a survey trip it was found that the outlook for this year was very promising in fact the early runs of same fish indicate that this season will far surpass any of past years.

During the last few years the popularity of big game ocean fishing has increased materially, especially with local anglers, not because there are more or larger fish, but due to the small cost required to indulge in the sport.

Each year brings increasing hordes of new enthusiasts into the field and with the improvement in fishing tackle, boats and other equipment better sport is being enjoyed today.

The National Park Service announces the following regulations for the 1938 season: The limit catch will be 20 fish caught by any one person in any one day provided, however, that the number of golden trout caught by any one person shall not exceed 10.

The few lakes that will be closed are: Lake Eleanor, closed on account of egg-taking operations; Wegner Lake near Mt. Hoffman and Upper Fletcher Lake, to protect golden trout, and Grayling Lake to protect grayling. Two streams will be closed—Eleanor creek, between Lake Eleanor and the park boundary and Red creek, below Grayling Lake.

WOHLFORD BASS TAKEN
Charles R. Kuebler, caretaker, today reported that the water is clear and the bass are in a fighting mood at Lake Wohlford, near Escondido. Numerous limits of bass, crappie and blue gill were taken by anglers during the past week.

ANGLERS LAND TROUT CATCHES IN MANY SOUTHLAND STREAMS

Thousands of anglers are spending week-ends at local inland lakes, streams and reservoirs and securing fair catches of trout, bass and crappie, especially the latter in Big Bear, Sherwood and San Diego lakes.

The landing of trout has been confined to Big Bear, Arrowhead, Jenks and Jackson lakes, and in the lower lakes and streams of the High Sierra country. Fair catches are reported locally, while the waters of the Sierras, especially Hot Creek, Owens River and June Lake waters have been returning good catches of sizable trout. The Owens River owing to heavy run-off of waters from the mountain areas has risen to a point far exceeding the levels of last year.

Some of the higher streams and lakes in the Sierras are open and anglers trying these waters have been successful in landing limit. Fishing conditions as a whole throughout the High Sierra area are improving. The heavy run-off of waters is slowing down and the streams are clearing.

All indications point to exceptionally good fishing from now until the end of the season. During the past week end hundreds of anglers headed into the Sierra country and reports coming in indicate that they are having exceptionally good luck.

Shoestring Fish
O. L. Sizelove, Long Beach, took light tackle in his boat—and hooked a 315-pound black sea bass.

After three hours' battle in which his boat was towed five miles out to sea, Sizelove's tackle began giving away. His partner used his shoestrings to tie rod and reel and they brought this monster to gaff.

To the largest fish of the day went a beautiful knife. This knife was donated by Al's Lock and Key Shop, and was won by Rodney Lewis. Rowney's fish, a beautiful yellowtail which weighed 21 lbs. dressed, was landed after a 20-minute battle. All fish were taken on light tackle.

Lewis was closely followed by Gordon Wilde who landed an 18 lb. yellowtail. Runners up in the contest were Nye Martin, Bill Schoenrock and Charles Schwenck. The knife will be awarded to the winner at the club meeting tonight at 7 p. m.

The members of the club who went on this trip, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barnett of Santa Ana, were Nye Martin, Jack Fowler, Bill Hentges, Bill Schoenrock, Nelson Harms, Rodney Lewis, Dick Roehm, Jerry MacCain, Bob Pollard, Gene Morrison, Bromley Krock, Larry Tway, Charles Schwenck, Bob Spickard, Bob Kenyon and Gordon Wilde.

The club holds its meetings every Thursday night at 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. and all boys interested in fishing are cordially invited. There are going to be many more trips planned by the club in the near future and all those interested will benefit by these good times. Meetings are held in the home of Nelson Harms, 333 Harwood place, Santa Ana. Al Jaspas will present the awards at the next meeting.

Wardens Checking Fishing Licenses
Wardens of the Fish and Game commission are active this year in enforcing the law requiring a fishing license for the taking of game fish in ocean waters, reports the outing bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Numerous anglers have been cited and fined for illegal fishing in local waters during the past few years. A license is required for all persons over 18 years of age, and it must be carried at all times when fishing.

JAPANESE HELD ON MORAL CODE COUNT

Kazumi Nakasako, 22-year-old Fresno Japanese boy, stood with head bowed low today behind the screen in county jail as relatives interviewed him from outside, regarding his arrest yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Bob Steinberger and Jail Matron Mrs. Nona Y. Lacy.

Nakasako was found in the company of a minor Japanese girl whom he assertedly brought here from Fresno, and was charged with violating Section 702 of the Welfare and Institution code of California which, in effect, is contributing to delinquency of a minor.

Ball was fixed in the warrant signed by Justice George M. DeWolf of Fresno, at $2000 cash or $4000 property bond. Nakasako will be returned to Fresno for prosecution. The girl was held here at juvenile home.

300 KIWANIS AT IRVINE PARK FEED

Approximately 300 members of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club and their families attended the annual picnic and barbecue yesterday at Irvine Park.

A ball game at 4 p. m. opened the activity for the day. Members of both teams rejoiced when the game was finally called at 6 p. m. to listen to the broadcast of the Louis-Schmelling fight.

The barbecue was served under the supervision of J. T. Raitt. At the "skeleton" meeting of the club yesterday noon at the Masonic Temple, Victor E. Teaney, former field secretary for Orange county Boy Scouts, now a resident of Monrovia, and W. E. Blake, of Jackson, Kentucky, were guests. Blake is enroute to the Kiwanis club national convention to be held in San Francisco June 26 to 30.

TALKFEST IS TAKEN BY DAVID CHERRY

Smedley Chapter Number One of the Toastmasters last night voted first place in its speaking contest to David Cherry who discussed the various provisions of the Norris Bill in his speech entitled "To Plan or Not to Plan."

Second place went to D. H. Tibbals with "So We're Civilized." Tibbals drew a comparison between past civilizations and the present, in which he showed that our civilization probably is not as high as we consider it to be.

A vacation trip was the subject of the talk by George Arnesen entitled "Glances Here and There." George Minor took the campaign for safer driving for his topic. In "Nuts and Bolts" Minor stressed the need for more stringent regulations and requirements for drivers licenses and a remedy for some of the terrible accidents occurring in the United States.

"Vote For Cameron" was the title of the talk by H. C. Cameron, Cameron told of the various types of justices of the peace and the needed qualifications for those holding the office in his election speech.

General critic Dr. W. L. Jolivet was assisted by individual critics W. W. Cadwallader, R. N. Scove, W. O. Mendenhall, Tad Cook, and Mel Curtis, Gordon Beisel was the guest of Jolivet.

The individual speech trophy was presented to David Cherry by vice president Horace O. Ensign who was acting president of the evening.

Friendly Gesture Proves Expensive

The hobo M. Del Georgia, dairyman at Manchester boulevard and Orangewood avenue, befriended recently by giving him a job, did him wrong, Del Georgia told Sheriff's officers yesterday afternoon.

When the hobo completed the job and was given his pay, he left, carrying with him, a set of Del Georgia's tools. However, Del Georgia told the officers he wasn't anxious to have the hobo hunted down and arrested since the tools were found in the second-hand store of C. W. Tindell, Buena Park, where they had been stolen. Tindell gave them to Del Georgia.

Mixing Bowl

BY ANN MEREDITH

That well known axiom, "bread is the staff of life," has been dinned into ears since time immemorial. It is fine if you like plain, unadorned bread, but when you want to add the staff, I'd like to suggest one or both of these breads. The first one, an orange nut bread, uses baking powder, the other, a trifle slower, uses yeast. And, APPLE SAUCE as liquid, believe it or not!

Orange Nut Bread

Peel from 2 oranges run through grinder and cooked 15 minutes with:
1 cup sugar
1 cup water and 2 teaspoons salt. Cool syrup.

Sift 3 scant cups flour with 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Beat 2 eggs to a froth and mix into.

1 cup thick sour cream

1 cup walnut meats, unchopped.

—My recipe.

Combine orange peel syrup, egg and sour cream and mix to a stiff batter with the flour. Add unchopped nut meats when half the flour has been mixed. Pack into a long oiled bread tin, let stand 15 minutes, then bake in a medium oven 1-1/4 hours.

Apple Sauce Nut Loaf

Make 3 cups of apple sauce and add to it while warm, 2 tablespoons butter. Cool, then add 1 yeast cake dissolved in 1 cup tepid water, 3 teaspoons salt and 1-2 cup sugar. Beat in enough flour to make a stiff dough, and at this stage add 1 cup unchopped walnut meats and 2 cups sliced dates. Continue adding flour until the dough is stiff enough to knead.

After kneading, let rise to double its bulk, knead lightly, shape into loaves (3 small ones) and let rise until ready for the oven. Bake 1 hour in a 350 degree oven, and ice with milk and powdered sugar mixed to stiff paste.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Old-Fashioned Currant Cake

Cream 1-2 cup soft butter with 2 cups white sugar, then with 4 eggs, beaten to thick froth.

Measure 3 cups sifted cake flour into sifter, add to flour.

1 scant teaspoon soda and 2 teaspoons cream of tartar (or 2 1-4 teaspoons double action baking powder).

Mix 1 cup sweet milk with 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1-4 teaspoon almond extract.

Wash and dry 1 1-2 cups currants.

—an old tested recipe.

The success of the cake lies in the creaming of butter, sugar and eggs. Beat until like whipped cream, then alternate flour and milk in mixing batter. As the flour goes in, drop in handfuls of the currants and go on with the mixing. This obviates the messy flouring of fruit.

Bake the cake in tube or loaf pan. Start baking at 300 degrees until the cake has risen, then increase the heat to 350 degrees to finish baking. Approximate baking time, 1 hour. (This cake is never frosted.)

Cheese Moulds for Salads

Soften 2 teaspoons gelatine in 1-4 cup cold water; dissolve gelatine in 1-2 cup boiling water.

Add 1 heaping cup grated sharp cheese and 1-2 cup ice water.

While the mixture needs stirring add:

1 teaspoon salt

1-2 teaspoon dry mustard

Pinch of sugar and cayenne

Juice of 1 lemon

When almost jellied, stir in 1 cup stiffly whipped cream.

Mould in ring or in individual portions. Serve on lettuce, with garnish of cooked fresh vegetables marinated in French dressing.

ANN MEREDITH.

TEAM MATCHES AGAIN ON CARD OF WRESTLING

Advance reservations for tonight's wrestling matches at the Orange County Athletic club indicate that team wrestling has really caught the fancy of the fans.

Presented last week for the first time in California, the "team wrestling" main event scored such a success that another was arranged for tonight.

In the main event and wrestling for two out of three falls, the team of Pat ("Popeye") O'Brien and Sgt. Bob Keneston will tangle with "Tarzan" Bob Montgomery and Ken Hollis. They will battle to a finish.

Similar to the battle royal of wrestling in that there are more than two men in the ring at the same time, team wrestling differs in that decisions are given to the team and not the individual. There are two men on each team and two teams in the ring at the same time.

The semi-windup, also two out of three falls (with no time limit) brings Don Sebastian, singing wrestler from Mexico City, back to the Highway arena. This time he wrestles Fritz Hansen, the Minnesota "terror."

Mysterious Mr. X of Amarillo also returns to the O. C. A. C. arena and will wrestle Benny Wilson in the two-out-of-three falls, one hour time limit preliminary.

TUSTIN WILL PLAY CAPISTRANO'S NINE

With the league-leading Placentia nine idle tonight, Orange County league night ball fans have their choice on three fronts tonight.

Tustin will attempt to stop the winning ways of the San Juan Capistrano nine at Tustin. Laguna Beach's much improved club goes to Yorba Linda for a game that promises plenty of action, and the last place Costa Mesas meet Irvine's Cubs at Irvine.

'Impossible' Cry Nazis After Schmeling's K. O.

BERLIN — (UP)—"Impossible!" Germans exclaimed today when over the radio came the announcement that Max Schmeling, the Aryan hero, had been knocked out in the first round of his fight with Joe Louis, the world's non-Aryan heavyweight champion.

The broadcast was shut off abruptly after the knockout announcement. When, later this morning, it was realized that Schmeling's defeat was not only possible but was a fact, the general verdict seemed to be that the German hero had been robbed.

Everybody had seemed certain that Schmeling would win.

Anny Ondra, Schmeling's beautiful movie star wife, was informed by transatlantic telephone today of his injuries in his fight with Joe Louis, it was reported. She did not hear the broadcast.

Afternoon newspapers emphasized reports that x-ray examination showed that Schmeling suffered two broken bones when Louis struck him. They attributed his defeat to this. But typical comment was that Schmeling would lose nothing of his country's affection for him because of his defeat and that Germans would show they could be good losers.

Seabiscuit, America's leading money winner of 1937, today appeared a decidedly doubtful starter in the $50,000 Hollywood Gold Cup July 16, following the release of feigns yesterday which listed him at the top with 133 pounds. Originally slated as a sure starter, the Belmont match race fiasco changed his summer schedule, putting him on an eastern tour. He is being pointed for the $50,000 race at Boston next Wednesday and he is well staked in the east for the summer.

Trainer Tom Smith, who has always been set against carrying more than 130 pounds, undoubtedly would veto a 300-mile ship west, and Owner Charles S. Howard usually listens to the man who developed the "Biscuit." True, Seabiscuit carried 133 pounds in the Bay Meadows race, but there was nothing behind him, and furthermore, it would have been poor publicity for Howard to have chilled the charity day program.

Howard, a swell fellow, but

ELKS FAVORED OVER ELTISTE CLUB AT BOWL

The first-half championship of the Santa Ana City softball league may be decided in the Municipal Bowl tonight when the one-two leaders, Elks and Eltiste, tangle at 8:30.

Defeated only once this season, the Elks can clinch the title by winning—and they are 2-1 favorites to do it. But the Eltiste outfit was good enough to "take" the B.P.O.E. once before (June 2) and might be good for another upset. The Eltistes traveled 12 innings for their 5-1 win over the Elks in the first round. If the repeat they will be tied for first place.

With "No-Hit" Lyle Morse again on the firing line, the Elks are confident of capturing the season's first real crucial struggle. Fine pitching, good fielding and murderous hitting have given them a record of 77 runs in eight league games against 12 runs by the combined opposition.

The Elks likely will line up with Morse pitching to Dave Webb, and Fred Cartwright at first base, Mickey Walker on second, Manager Darwin at third, Art Heinisch playing short and Bruce Harolds, George Conaway and Ray Short in the outskirts.

Eltiste's will counter with Lyle Morse's brother, Leo, in the box and Carroll receiving. Floyd Montgomery, George Frobie, Pete Partridge and Gene O'Campo gave this team a formidable infield and the outfield of "Porky" Bell, Joe Ortega and Herb Meyer is strong, too.

The 7:30 contest pairs up Montgomery Ward's fallen champions and Treesweep Products.

THE DAY AFTER

Reflections on the day after what was supposed to be the greatest fight of a decade but which was pretty much of a dud after you think it all over.

Maxie Baer, the clown quince, is next in the line that forms to the right. Not because he can fight but because he can draw. They'll toss him in there next September, Maxie glad to take a loser's end, Baer quit cold to Louis last time. It is to be hoped the Californian at least goes through the motions for his share of the next receipts.

I should like to have watched the ringside reactions of the man who owned the movie rights for the Louis-Schmeling affair. The one and only round was crammed with action, but it is problematical how many persons will pay to see two minutes of a fight film. A five or six round battle would have been safer. Louis was very reconsiderate.

Schmeling was a 2 to 1 favorite in Germany. It's a wonder the odds weren't longer. I shouldn't envy the plight of a man in modern Berlin betting on Louis against Herr Max.

Can't help feeling sorry for Schmeling. The big German has been a credit to the seamy science of boxing, as well as a most courageous fighter. The idea he should like to have been retired after he knocked out Louis last time. He was jobbed out of the championship then (when Braddock dodged him to take a bigger loser's end against Louis) and he had the sympathy of most sportsmen on his side. Now he's just another member of the "I've Been Kayeed" by Louis club.

Nonpareil type at the bottom of the racing cards often tell a story. . . Yesterday's at Hollywood park tips you off that Urban Plavan of Santa Ana claimed Sure Fine in the first race from the Southern stables. . . Plavan paid $1500 for the two-year-old, adds Sure Fine to his little string that includes Tomillo and Urge Mo. . . There were four claims on Sure Fine. Plavan got the colt in a four-way drawing. . . Plavan's Tomillo starts at Inglewood Saturday.

Inside stuff: Paul Lowry, the Los Angeles Times racing expert, owns a summer home at Sunset Beach. A guest there is Dick Handlen of Wilmington, Del., trainer for Foxcatcher Farms. Now we know why Lowry picked Dauber and stuck with the Foxcatcher three-year-old to win at Santa Anita, Churchill Downs and other tracks.

Joe Can't Be Bothered

Curled up in the sun with his fishing pole dangling over boat's edge, Joe Louis already forgets his cyclonic fight with Max Schmeling. Fact is he doesn't even worry whether he'll get a bite. Here you see Joe at his favorite sport—sleeping.

McLemore's Log At Scene Of Execution

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Fight log of a sports writer seated in seat 8, row A, working press, ringside Yankee stadium.

Entered stadium at 8:30 p. m. and was caught in rip tide of humans occasioned by the arrival of Robert Taylor, a Nebraska country boy whose only weaknesses are little pig sausages and Barbara Stanwyck. Managed to make way down aisle behind interference led by Max Baer, who cheerfully admitted he was glad he didn't have to get in the ring with Joe Louis.

"Everybody says I quit to Louis when I fought him," Maxie said. "Well, that's not here or there, but I'll tell you one thing—when people see me executed they're going to have to pay more than 25 bucks a seat for the privilege. And that was the top that night." If that's a tip-off on what will happen if Joe and Max meet in September, well, you're welcome to it.

Watched Gene Tunney come Prussian-haircutting down the aisle and try to explain to friends his reasons for picking both Louis and Schmeling in the fight. That's what Gene did, you know.

At 9:23, 37 minutes before Joe and Max were scheduled to enter the ring didn't seem to be a single empty seat. Of course, there probably were plenty of them, because the human eye couldn't see past the ringside rows, so thoroughly had Promoter Mike Jacobs seen to it that everyone who wanted to pay $30 for a seat was granted the privilege.

The last ringside row was on the front porch of the home of a Yonkers citizen, some 17 miles from the scene of action.

The principals, Louis and Schmeling, came in a rush of policemen, a wild, whirling rush of sound that broke, and broke again on the stadium walls. Louis sat directly above me, no more than an arm's length away. He wore the same blue silk bathrobe, the same inscrutable expression. He tapped his feet nervously, and was reluctant to speak to Schmeling when the German, with a smile this wide on his face, shuffled across the ring.

To attract Joe's attention, Schmeling cuffed him good naturedly on the shoulder. Dempsey was brought into the ring. And Tunney and Tony Galento and Baer and Tommy Farr. The cheer for Dempsey drowned out the greeting to all the others.

Schmeling was introduced. Hands up, grinning, his welcome was sprinkled with boos.

Louis was introduced, and was met with the biggest hand of his career.

Donovan talked to them. "Let's go," he said. The bell rang.

Some customers complained of the brevity of the fight. They should remember that it took Louis longer to finish his job—2:04—than it did War Admiral to win the Derby.

Louis Like Coney Rifeman; Fights Maxie Baer Next

(Additional stories of Schmeling-Louis fight will be found on Page 1)

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Joe Louis is swifter than the chair, quicker than the hempen noose.

Only the guillotine can match him as a killer.

The brown-skinned boy shuffled out before some 70,000 people in Yankee stadium and finished off Max Schmeling, and his challenge for the world's heavyweight title, in 124 seconds.

The chair takes four minutes to finish a man, the noose longer. Even lightning must bow to Louis, because it only strikes once. He struck a dozen times. Each blow took its toll, and the toll was a heavy one. The final one sent Schmeling pitching forward on his face. His only sign of life, as the referee counted over him, was a twitching of his feet.

Schmeling was so badly hurt his must have seen that night in June body still throbbled hours after the fight, and his manner, Joe Jacobs, feared that his spine or right kidney must have seen it too, because he moved in and viciously counted, a towel came fluttering from the German's corner. It said: "Kamerad!"

Louis Like Rifleman

But the German was no quitter. Through the mist and the blood he saw the towel, too, and he rose, shaking, to his feet. He got up, knowing what was coming. He wasn't wrong. He got it. A left, a twisting, dirty left, snapped his head to one side, exposing the whole expanse of the left side of his face. Like a rifleman in a Coney Island target range, who waits until the duck comes round, Louis drew a bead on that German jaw. With the same "v-i-o-o-s-h" that the big blade drops, his nut brown fist drove home.

That was all.

Donovan's counting was just a gesture now. He could have run through all the numbers up to 900, and it wouldn't have done Max any good.

People yelled. Lights flashed. Announcers bellowed through their contrivances. People yelled some more. Louis pulled on his bathrobe. And then Schmeling, to his everlasting credit, showed the finest spirit, the nicest manners, any fighter ever showed. Still hurt, in heart and head, with every hope shattered, he made his way across the ring in time to throw a glove around Louis' shoulders. It was almost the only time he touched him all night. He smiled, and said the German equivalent of "congratulations." And as he started to climb through the ropes, a little photographer pushed him back and asked for one more pose. Max stepped back, stood there and let the little man take a careful picture of a Schmeling you know he would like to forget.

NEW YORK—(UP)—The remnants of a jubilant army, at one time 500,000 strong, still milled dizzily through Harlem today continuing the most frenzied celebration ever staged in that Negro city within a city.

Twenty policemen were slightly injured in the riotous celebration that began when Joe Louis licked his only conqueror—Max Schmeling.

Police patrol cars were pelted with empty and half-filled bottles. One bus was stormed and set afire and fights broke out at every corner where men and women weren't hugging, kissing and swinging each other in ecstatic dances.

Only at one point, after midnight when the "dead soldiers" lay scattered whole and in glass fragments by the thousands, did the mob grow menacing. A policeman had arrested one belligerent celebrant and a hundred Negroes gathered, muttering threats. Police reinforcements dispersed them.

Festivities were marked by the political and international implications which the people read into the victory of their idol. Placards denouncing Nazism and Fascism were everywhere. They proclaimed the knockout a "victory for Democracy" and proof that "Democracies must fight Fascism everywhere."

"Louis Wins, Hitler Weeps," one sign said.

Budge, Mako Score Easy Net Victories

WIMBLEDON — (UP)—Mrs. Hilde Sperling of Denmark, the No. 4 seeded entrant, eliminated Gracyn Wheeler of Santa Monica, Calif., from the all-England tennis championships today in the second round. Mrs. Sperling won 6-0, 6-0, leaving five American women in the tournament.

Donna Mako of Los Angeles gained the fourth round with a 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2 victory over T. B. Henderson-Brooks of England.

Donald Budge, seeking his second consecutive title, moved into the round of 16 in the singles championship by defeating George Rogers of Ireland, 6-0, 7-5, 6-1.

A crowd of 14,000 watched the play. The weather was warm and sunny.

Helen Jacobs Extended

Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., 1936 winner who fainted in the dressing room yesterday and forced postponement of her match, advanced into the third round with a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Joan Ingram of England.

Mrs. Sarah Paley Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., and Alice Marble of San Francisco gained the third round of the women's doubles with a 7-5, 6-3 victory over Jadwiga Jedzejowska and Muriel Thomas of England.

After yesterday's disaster before 67,459 who packed Cleveland's municipal stadium and saw the Indians win a doubleheader, the Yanks hoped to salvage one game of the series today behind "Bump" Hadley, lately promoted to a starting pitcher. Earl Whitehill, venerable Cleveland southpaw, will oppose him.

'Worst Slump' Drops Yanks Down Ladder

NEW YORK—The panicky New York Yankees today were in full retreat before the pennant drive of the Cleveland Indians. Beaten three times in succession by the Tribe, the Yanks dropped to 4-12 games from the top and were in the throes of one of their worst slumps since they ascended the baseball pinnacle two years ago.

BEACH CITY COUNCIL FILES APPLICATION FOR PWA FUNDS

LAGUNA BEACH, June 23.—Another step in the move to secure modern sewers for the McKnight addition, north of town, was taken last night, when the city council authorized Arthur J. Stead, engineer of work, to file application with PWA authorities for a grant to further construction of the sewer main.

When completed, the sewer will connect with the modern sewerage disposal plant at the mouth of Laguna canyon, and give Laguna Beach a 100 per cent sewer service. Stead was also authorized, by the resolution adopted, to conduct further negotiations with government authorities looking towards speedy completion of the sanitary system in the McKnight district. The work is estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $75,000.

The council at the request of the American Legion post No. 252, appropriated the sum of $100 to be used by the Legion in the forthcoming Fourth of July celebration and will designate a spot, probably on the public beach, for the fireworks.

NAME CRUICKSHANK TO STATE OFFICE

A. J. Cruickshank of Santa Ana, was elected state treasurer in the business session of the National Tuberculosis Association meeting yesterday in Los Angeles.

Dr. Chesley Bush of Livermore was elected president of the national organization and Dr. Carl E. Hawson of Los Angeles was elected president of the California group.

Inclusion of the tuberculin test, X-ray and follow-up of positive reactors in routine school and public health programs was urged yesterday by Dr. W. P. Shepard of San Francisco in an address to the association.

After praising the tuberculin test case-finding method as of proved value, Dr. Shepard told the more than 1000 physicians and tuberculosis officials gathered for the third day sessions, "It is obvious that no proper school health or public health program can overlook tuberculosis."

Dr. Shepard was joined in his views by Dr. Charles E. Shepard of the Stanford university faculty, who co-authored the paper.

Experience shows that even the most careful tuberculin testing, X-ray and follow-up procedure in grade schools will disclose only one infectious case out of perhaps 2000 to 3000 pupils, Dr. Shepard said.

In high schools, one case is found for every 200 to 300 pupils and in colleges, one case for every 100 to 150 students, he said.

Dr. Thomas B. McKelvey of the United States Public Health Service in another paper cited results of tuberculin testing programs on grade and high school pupils in a small city. All of the pupils were X-rayed, whether or not they reacted positively to the tuberculin test.

DAMAGES ASKED AS RESULT OF CRASH

If an automobile slightly damaged in an accident is driven from the accident scene by the owner and is greatly damaged thereby, just who must pay the damage?

That was the problem facing Judge Kenneth Morrison in Santa Ana justice court today following the hearing of a suit brought by George J. Avas, 315 North Sycamore, against the Orange County Auto club.

Last November 5, Avas drove his brand new coupe to El Sombbrero cafe, 101 highway, on a business trip, he testified and while there, another motorist, without his knowledge, smashed the crankcase, allowing the seven quarts of oil to flow away. The car, by a rear-end collision with the second car, driver unknown, was knocked six or seven feet, over the curb of 101 highway.

Avas said he drove away toward Santa Ana, and that, nearing the city, the car stopped with pistons "frozen" and the car otherwise damaged. The auto club, agreeing to pay insurance in the amount of $11.15 to replace the crankcase, refused to pay the additional $200 cost of fixing pistons, starter, bearings, valves, rings and cylinder.

Roland Thompson, attorney for Avas, argued that the greater damage was the direct result of the crash against Avas' car; Fred Forgy and R. J. Cruickshank, representing the club, said the greater damage was too remote from the approximate cause. Judge Morrison took the case under advisement.

Jimmie Fidler
in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 23.—Out of the past: A decade or so ago, Kenneth Harlan was one of the screen's greatest stars. I used to watch him, noon-times, giving autographs to his admirers in the Boulevard's most popular cafes, and I always envied his dash and assurance. Today, he is an obscure bit-player, forgotten by his one-time fans, but I still envy him. He is one of Hollywood's really happy men.

When he found himself on the Hollywood skids, he turned philosopher. Instead of trying to keep up a "front" as most falling stars do, he took his savings and bought a little ranch out in the San Fernando valley. Instead of planting flowers, he planted a vegetable garden. Instead of raising pedigreed dogs, he raises poultry. And he has made that ranch pay him a nice profit, both in money and in self-satisfaction.

He still works two or three days a week in the studios and, if his paychecks are only a fraction of their former size, they are still big enough to take care of his needs. He has a host of friends. He is happily married. He has a small son whom he idolizes. I think those of you who admired him as the swash buckling lover in those old-time melodramas of the "silent" days would admire him even more if you could see him, today, working on his ranch. His face reflects a strength and peace that was never there when he was Ken Harlan, the great star.

In a town where it is considered fashionable to be bored with everyone and everything, it is refreshing to meet a girl like Ellen Drew, Paramount's new "best-bet." I was introduced to her today on the "If I Were King" set and found her starchy-eyed about her role. "I've just finished pictures with Bing Crosby and Fred MacMurray," she reported breathlessly. "And now here I am working with Ronald Coleman and Basil Rathbone. Three years ago, when I was presiding over a candy counter, I would have fainted from sheer excitement if any one of those men had come in and bought a bag of gum drops!"

Chatted with Robert Cummings, who recently made a personal appearance in a little Northern California town. On his arrival there, he sensed a certain suspicion on the part of the natives.

GIRL SCOUTS ARRIVE FOR ANNUAL CAMP

GIRLS ELECTED PATROL CHIEFS

Six girls were elected as patrol leaders of the encampment of 22 Girl Scouts at Camp Ro-Ki-Li, after their arrival at the camp on Tuesday. It was learned in a communication from Miss Margaret Wolf, Santa Ana Girl Scout director, today.

The girls who will head the patrols included: Jean Hunter, Dorothy Brush, Dorcas Fairbairn, Connie Murane, Corrine Hill, and Dorcas Jacobson. These girls, with Mrs. Golden Weston, Mrs. R. C. Harris, and Miss Marian Hawk, will direct the activity of the group.

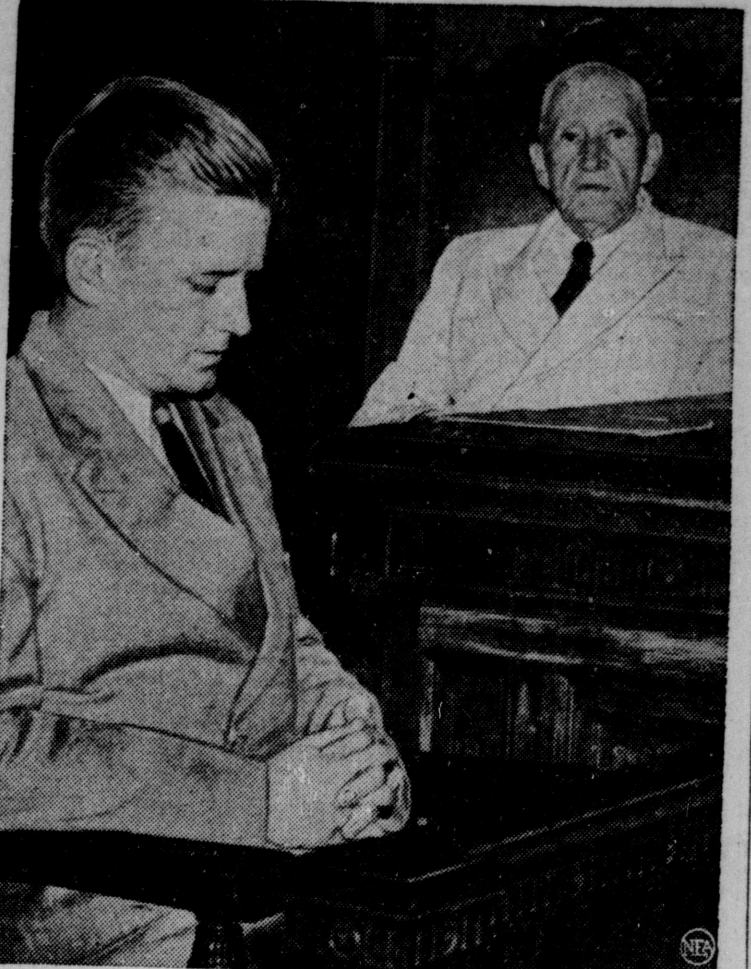

Miss Wolf, with Harrison White, Orange county scout executive, and Irene Noble, arrived at the camp last Sunday to have the camp in readiness for the arrival of the Girl Scouts.

Staff members who will assist in the direction of the camp include: the Misses Martha Tuthill, Marian Hawk, Violet Holter, Eujane Carr, Hazel Burgee, and Jane Crawford.

Following is a list of the girls attending the camp:

Dorothy Brush, Margaret Rutan, Ruth Jane Pettigall, Mildred Lockett, Jean McLaugh, Betty McLaugh, Barbara Young, Duane Alcock, Corinne Hill, Janice Campbell, Connie Murane, Ruanne Neighbor, Florence Fairbairn, Norene Smith, Patsy Hunter, Helen McDermott, Beverly Russell, Marjorie Crump, Jeanne Young, Dorcas Jacobson, Lucille Mendenhall and Jean Hunter.

"...Give Him the Chair"

LIQUOR SALES TO YOUTHS HIT

Declaring the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors to be the most "pressing" problem of the state board of equalization at present, William G. Bonelli, member of the board for this area, today asked cooperation of H. G. Nelson, principal of Lathrop junior high school, other school heads and parents, in helping to control juvenile delinquencies through control of liquor distribution.

In submitting a copy of Section 61 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control act, Bonelli stated that a survey has been made by the board and indicates that "very few students of schools in my district are familiar with Section 61-B of the Alcoholic Beverage Control act which reads:

"Any minor who purchases any alcoholic beverage, or any minor who consumes any alcoholic beverage in any on-sale premises, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

To Principal Nelson, Bonelli wrote: "I give this information to you in the hope that some method may be devised by your office whereby the legal hazard of the consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors may be brought to the attention of your students."

"In order to properly enforce the law and protect all of our minors, it is necessary to enforce provisions of Section 61-B against the minor with the same vigor we use against the licensee who sells to a minor," he continued. "We will appreciate very much anything you may do to forcibly bring this matter to the attention of your students as an arrest of a minor under this section may establish a police record against that person which, in later years, may prove exceedingly embarrassing."

A minor is defined in the act as any person under 21 years of age and a period of minority must be calculated from the first minute of the day on which persons are born to the same minute of the corresponding day completing the period of minority. So far as the Alcoholic Beverage Control act is concerned, a married woman also is a minor until 21. The seller of alcoholic beverages is always held responsible for determining the age of any person asking to purchase an alcoholic beverage.

A review of the activity of the California Real Estate Association during the last six months will be presented at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Realty board by Glen A. Willaman, state secretary. The group will meet at the Rosemore cafe at noon tomorrow.

JURY GIVES $2500 AWARD AS DAMAGES

Although the defense produced motion pictures, secretly taken, to show that Mrs. Scott Smith was not in as bad a state of health as she claimed, following a traffic crash in Santa Ana last January, a jury in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court late yesterday awarded Mr. and Mrs. Clark $2500 damages against the National Biscuit Company and W. H. Sippel, driver for that company.

Mrs. Scott had sued for $15,000, and her husband asked $5191.35, their suit being brought through Attorney David D. French, of Santa Ana. Attorney Fred Forgy, for the defense, turned the courtroom into a temporary theater, to show the movies a defense detective had taken of Mrs. Scott unwares. These purportedly showed her in an automobile and curio stores at Tia Juana, others showing her hanging out her wash and otherwise getting about in an apparently normal state of health, though she walked in the courtroom with slow and faltering step and apparent weakness.

The jury, however, decided the husband and wife, jointly, were entitled to $2500 damages. The verdict was returned shortly after 2 p. m. the jury having taken the case at 10:30 a. m.

LUTHERANS TO STAGE PICNIC

Announcement of the annual picnic of the Aid Association for Lutherans has been sent to all branches in Orange and Riverside counties and Long Beach. The picnic will be held in Anaheim city park the afternoon and evening of June 25.

Members and their friends will gather at the park immediately after church morning services for the picnic dinner. Coffee and cold drinks will be furnished by the association.

The afternoon will be given over to various games and contests for young and old. The branches of St. John's and Immanuel in Orange have challenged the other groups to a ball game. WELFARE DIRECTOR OUTLINES RELIEF PROBLEMS IN COUNTY

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Mr. Snow on various aspects of the relief problem in Orange County.

BY JACK W. SNOW

Director Orange County Department of Social Welfare

In addition to the County Welfare Department with its responsibility for unemployables, and the State Relief Administration and the Works Progress Administration set up to provide for employable persons, there are other public agencies and programs active in Orange County.

The Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) is a well-known federal work relief program for physically fit young men between the ages of 17 and 27 who have dependents. In addition to their care at the camps, a cash allowance is provided, the larger part of which is sent to the dependent relative for his or her support. Enrollment is handled by the welfare department in this county.

Another federal program is the National Youth Administration (NYA). Two types of assistance are provided. The first is student aid which is administered by school authorities under the inspection of the county NYA representative to enable students to partially finance their education. The second type of aid provided under this program is on the order of vocational training and work relief. The NYA band and the NYA toy project which are widely known throughout the county are examples of the latter type.

The Farm Security Administration is a federal agency primarily intended to make rehabilitation loans to marginal farm families. While the loans are made with the expectation of repayment, this agency also makes occasional outright relief grants in emergencies for subsistence purposes.

The county hospital is a public relief agency which provides medical care for needy persons. Still active is the self-help cooperative movement in this county, although in a much more limited way than was the case several years ago. State and federal funds have been advanced, both as outright grants and as Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Teachers Are Principals In Home Nuptials

Several Santa Anans were among the guests in Redlands last night for the ceremony at which two former teachers in this community, Miss Vesta Katharine Nickerson and Philip Bennett Lukel, were married in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Nickerson.

Miss Nickerson was a member of the faculty at Santa Ana High school this past year, and Mr. Lukel was a teacher in Garden Grove schools. He has taken a teaching position in Junior college of Ocean-side, where he and his bride will make their home in the fall. The bridegroom is son of Andrew Lukel of Los Angeles.

The Rev. E. H. Brennan read the 8 o'clock ceremony, for which piano music was provided by Mrs. Earle Cromas. Baskets of various flowers were arranged throughout the ceremony, while the improvised altar was banked with white blossoms. Lighted tapers added to the effective setting.

Miss Nickerson was gown in white satin on train, with a finger tip veil and a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Attendants were her sisters, Miss Margaret Anne Nickerson in coral taffeta and Miss Winifred Jane Nickerson in eggshell taffeta with contrasting sashes and lavender face veils. Their bouquets were of Tulleman roses and delphinium. Martin Crumrine of Los Angeles was best man, and Marvin Darsie of Los Angeles was usher.

Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Lukel left for their honeymoon trip. The bride wore a gray tailored suit with navy blue accessories.

The new Mrs. Lukel, who attended Stanford and Columbia Universities, is a member of Cap and Gown, Pi Lambda Theta, Theta Sigma Phi and Chi Omega societies. She belongs to Santa Ana Panhellenic society. Mr. Lukel studied at University of California at Los Angeles and at University of California, Berkeley. He is affiliated with Alpha Zeta, Alpha Gamma and Alpha Phi Omega fraternities.

The bridegroom's son, Lawrence Lapham of Los Angeles was best man.

Fifteen relatives and friends were present for the ceremony, followed by a dinner in the Paul Thiebaud home. The newly-wedded pair will live at 5626 Black-welder street, Los Angeles.

FEDERATION BOARD

"In your hands is unlimited potential power and strength" declared Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar, newly elected president of General Federation of Women's Clubs, addressing clubwomen at the summer board meeting of the California federation in Santa Barbara. Mrs. Duncan Stewart Robinson, state federation president, presided over the sessions during which 75 women, representing all state officers and chairmen, outlined plans for next year's work.

Legislative study will dominate the year's program and study will be given to the situation created by the influx of needy because of California's old age pension law.

Among next year's convention dates set was that of the state federation convocation to be held in Oakland May 4, 5 and 6. District convention dates were named also, that of the Southern district, with which Santa Ana Ebbs and Womans' clubs are affiliated, to be held at Coronado November 16, 17 and 18.

Dinner Party Honors Young Couple on Wedding Anniversary

Having reached the first anniversary of wedded life, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon W. Lee were commemorated Saturday evening by Mr. Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lee, 709 Lacy street, at a family dinner party.

It was on June 19, 1937, in Santa Ana Wedding chapel, that Miss Alene Amy Clark and Vernon W. Lee were wedded, so the bridal motif of that date was repeated in table appointments for the anniversary dinner. A snow wedding cake with one silver bell centering the table, was circled with tapers in crystal candelabra. The chicken dinner had for its dessert course, this luscious cake served with wedding bell centered ice cream rounds.

Mrs. Vernon Lee wore her wedding gown of white lace over satin, completed with a gardenia corsage. She and Mr. Lee had the package of opening many gifts.

It was regretted that one member of the bridal party was absent. This was Miss Dorothy Strubel, maid of honor, who is now visiting her parents in Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lee had as dinner guests with the celebrants, the Vernon Lees, Mrs. Vernon Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clark, Miss Jean Clark and Lane Chapman, Costa Mesa; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lang, Irvine; Edward Terrell, Yorba Linda; Miss Golda Clark and Guy Dawson, Los Angeles; Mrs. Bernice Simmons, Santa Ana.

Pastor From Fairbanks Arrived Today for Southland Visit

Arrival today of the Rev. John E. Youel of Fairbanks, Alaska, for his first Southern California visit, has occasioned a world of pleasant plans on the part of his sister and brother, Mrs. B. W. Johnson of Newport Road, and M. B. Youel, 530 East Seventeenth street, and their families.

The Rev. Mr. Youel, who is pastor of Fairbanks First Presbyterian church, has been in attendance at the General Assembly in Philadelphia, Pa. Mrs. Youel did not accompany him, as she remained at the charge during his absence of two months or longer. He took the opportunity while in the east, to visit his son, Harlan, in New York City, and has enjoyed a round of sight-seeing trips, including the present one in the Southland.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and the M. B. Youels are planning to show him as many points of interest as possible during his visit here. Many Santa Anans who have made the Alaska trip and are familiar with the Fairbanks church, are anticipating the opportunity to meet the visiting pastor.

Old Iowa Friends Are Complimented At Bon Voyage Dinner

News of old friends in their former home community of Orange City, Iowa, was recounted last night for a group of Southland dinner guests in the home of the Misses Cynthia and Elizabeth Schalkamp, 1017 Spurgeon street, who complimented two recent arrivals, Mrs. Kitty Paxton and Miss May Van de Speeg, at the pleasant affair.

Mrs. Paxton and Miss Van de Speeg have enjoyed a week's stay in Southern California, but will sail early tomorrow morning from Los Angeles harbor for Honolulu. They have spent much of the week in Long Beach and with their cousin, Mrs. Edward I. Moore, Newport.

All of last night's dinner guests in the Schalkamp home were originally from Orange City, so the evening occasioned many happy reminiscences. In the party with the sister hostesses and their honor guests, were Mrs. Sarah Leggett, Dr. Mathel Hospers and Mrs. C. G. Hospers, Pasadena; Mrs. Florence Granger, Los Angeles and Mrs. Edward Moore, Newport.

The entire party will be at the harbor early tomorrow morning with flowers and gifts to express bon voyage to Mrs. Paxton and Miss Van de Speeg. When the two conclude their island visit, they will return to San Francisco and depart from that city for their Iowa home.

Betrothal Is Announced At Picnic Supper

Never dreaming that a steak bake would have the exciting climax of an engagement announcement, a merry group picnicking at Irvine Park found their steaks liberally seasoned with romance when Miss Ellen Frazee revealed that she soon would wed Marvin Starry of this city.

This announcement was made at the close of the alfresco dinner while the girls lingered around their chosen park table to enjoy the chocolates passed by Miss Frazee. To their amazement, the big box of candy contained a card with its message, "Ellen and Marvin, July 10." In the excitement which ensued, the prospective bride donned for the first time in public, the pretty solitaire indicating her status as an engaged girl.

Miss Frazee, whose parents live in Pomona, has been here with her brother and sister-in-law, the Corwin Frazees, 919 1/2 West Myrtle street, and has made a school and junior college days. Her fiancé, Mr. Starry, also makes his home with a brother and sister-in-law, the Ellsworth Starrys, 1027 West Chestnut street, and is with the Excelsior Creamery company. His parents live in Idaho.

The lively group of picnickers to whom the wedding date was revealed included Mrs. Harry Manns, the Misses Lois Drake, Eva Berge, Eunice Spicer, Eleanor Morrill, Hazel Cartwright, Betty Martin, Betty Lou McFarland and Louise Sexton.

Miller-Tyler Wedding Rehearsal Held In Gardens

Assembled Wednesday night in the gardens of the W. J. Richardson home, 1232 West Eighth street, a group of young people rehearsed for the wedding of Miss Leatha Tyler and Raymond F. Miller, which will take place in the alfresco setting Saturday night.

At the close of rehearsal, Mrs. Richardson invited the group in door for a pleasant social time. The evening was a hamburger supper, and there was an occasional round of bridge play. But most important of all was the presentation of a capacious big scrubbing pail to Miss West, filled with brooms, mops, brushes and all the homely but necessary equipment for keeping her future home bright and shining.

This gay party was one of a series in which Miss West is being complimented this week in advance of her wedding scheduled for Saturday night in First Baptist church. She shared the pleasant things planned by her sister hostesses with a very recent bride, Mrs. Jack Barlow (Prudence Roberts) and with the Misses Gloria Austin, Katherine Eklund, Gloria Kirchner, Betty Timmons, Barbara Davis, Virginia Curry, Betty Bradley, Josephine Flaherty, Harriet Fowler, Dolly Raitt, Jeanne McDonald, Audrey Sattler and Evelyn Witt.

Informal Group Meets For Breakfast With Mrs. Dunning

Since yesterday's meeting of a little sewing group of long standing, was the final one before disbanding for the summer, the hostess, Mrs. Hardean T. Dunning, invited members to breakfast with her at her home, 1837 East Fourth street, and devote the remainder of a pleasant day to their customary informal pleasures.

Her breakfast table was charming with its shallow bowl in which the azure blue clusters of agapanthus were given a low arrangement. Following a leisurely enjoyment of the breakfast menu, guests sewed, chatted and enjoyed the vista of the gardens. An occasional hand of bridge is introduced at these meetings, but everything is with complete informality.

Summer months always bring occasional meetings at Balboa with Mrs. Earl Morrow or Mrs. Susan Rutherford. Other than that there will be a lapse in meetings until the autumn.

In the group yesterday with Mrs. Dunning were Mrs. M. A. Patton, Mrs. Bruce Monroe, Miss Mary Jones, Mrs. George Miles, Mrs. James Harding, Mrs. H. B. Van Dien, Mrs. Rutherford and Mrs. Morrow.

Country Club Supper Plans Announced

On the committee in charge were Doris McCollum and Ann Marie Longabard, assisted by Grace Brown, Virginia McClellans and Muriel Dawson.

The Great Pyramid of Egypt contains about 2300 blocks of stone, and the stones average more than two tons each.

Hostesses Pay Honors To June Bride-elect With Gift Shower

Mrs. William Ellison and Mrs. Lee Hoffmaster, two close friends of one of the June brides just now occupying the center of the social stage, Miss Leatha Tyler, joined to compliment Miss Tyler very charmingly Tuesday afternoon.

They welcomed a group of mutual friends to the Ellison home, 718 South Van Ness avenue, where quantities of blossoms were used in developing a pink and white color scheme. Tables were arranged for cordial play and when scores were totaled, first prize was presented Mrs. Marion Thompson, with consolation gifts going to Miss Donna Baker.

This introduced the shower interval, when gifts in wide variety were presented Miss Tyler. Her marriage to Raymond F. Miller is to be a garden event of Saturday evening at the W. J. Richardson home, 1232 West Eighth street. After the ribbon-tied packages were opened and admired, the hostesses re-grouped their guests around the card tables, arranged with pretty linens and flower clusters, for the serving of slipper-centered ice cream, pink-iced cake and coffee.

In the party with Mrs. Ellison, Mrs. Hoffmaster and their honoree Miss Tyler, were Mrs. Marvin Thompson, Mrs. W. J. Richardson, Mrs. W. B. Miller, the Misses Lois Newbold, Donna Baker, Claudine Minter, Carol Miller, Marjorie Matthews and Ruth Dunlap.

Swimming Is Abandoned In Favor of Shower By Party Guests

That showers may affect swimming, was proven last night when the swimming party planned by the Misses Caro and Eleanor Cogan as a compliment to Miss Betty West, fiancée of Frederick Pinkston, developed into a gift shower instead.

Although swimming was neglected, all other plans of the hostesses were put into effect in the pitiable Cogan home on Irvine ranch. There was a hamburger supper, and there was an occasional round of bridge play. But most important of all was the presentation of a capacious big scrubbing pail to Miss West, filled with brooms, mops, brushes and all the homely but necessary equipment for keeping her future home bright and shining.

This gay party was one of a series in which Miss West is being complimented this week in advance of her wedding scheduled for Saturday night in First Baptist church.

She shared the pleasant things planned by her sister hostesses with a very recent bride, Mrs. Jack Barlow (Prudence Roberts) and with the Misses Gloria Austin, Katherine Eklund, Gloria Kirchner, Betty Timmons, Barbara Davis, Virginia Curry, Betty Bradley, Josephine Flaherty, Harriet Fowler, Dolly Raitt, Jeanne McDonald, Audrey Sattler and Evelyn Witt.

Surprise Dinner Party Planned as Farewell To Traveler

A pleasant conspiracy on the part of a group of contract players, was put into effect last night in the home of Mrs. Henry S. Williams, 313 West Cubbon street, as a compliment to Mrs. Charles W. Hyde Jr. before her departure for Alaska.

Mrs. Hyde, who as Julia Ann Hyde of Commercial National bank's travel bureau, is leaving Saturday with a party of twenty or more travelers for the famous Yukon River trip, was unaware that the evening was anything more than the customary contract session. Instead it was a dinner party, which other members joined with Mrs. Williams to plan.

Centering the table with its heavy Irish lace cloth, was a stately silver ship on a blue mirror sea. Sea-blue too were the delphiniums arranged in silver bubble bowls, and the ship designs on place cards.

Bridge play of after-dinner hours brought another surprise, with the presentation to Mrs. Hyde, of a little club gift to take with her on her travels. At the same time Mrs. Williams awarded first and second prizes to Mrs. Minnie Cox and Mrs. Burr Shaffer. The gifts were given a charming touch by the flowers knotted into the matching ribbons.

Although Mrs. Arnold Lunde, a member, and Mrs. Theo Bolte, a guest member, were not present, there was a congenial guest, Mrs. C. Harold Dale, to complete the two tables made up of Mrs. Williams, the honoree, Mrs. Hyde, Mrs. Robert Jeffrey, Mrs. Burr Shaffer, Mrs. Minnie Cox, Mrs. E. Nell Stanley and Mrs. Emmett Elliott.

Lodge Past Masters Hold Picnic at Azusa

Silver Cord Lodge past masters and their wives formed a merry party of picnickers Monday evening at Rainbow Angling club in Azusa, where trout dinner was served as a climax to a session of fishing which proved profitable for everyone.

Messrs. and Mesdames Owen Murray, Orson Hunter and Carl Edgar were on the committee in charge. Others in the group were Dr. and Mrs. Cassius Paul and son, Jimmie, who was celebrating his birthday; Messrs. and Mesdames Frank C. Armin, J. Parley Smith, Olen Turner, Don Edwards, Robert Burkett, Ralph Graves, Charles Deitchard, William Iverson, Asa Hoffman all of this community; with Mr. and Mrs. Ward Sutton of Pasadena and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCausland of Anaheim.

Anniversary Affair Attended By Local Residents

Many residents of this community were in Glendale recently for the celebration of the silver wedding anniversary of former Santa Anans Dr. and Mrs. Edward Abbott, whose marriage took place in this city June 18, 1913. Mrs. Abbott is the former Miss Leta Wells daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wells of the Irvine Ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells were among the relatives present for the observance. Other members of the family group attending were Mrs. Abbott's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lambert and daughters, the Misses Lucille and Barbara Lambert of the Irvine Ranch and Miss Caroline Wells, Miss Rosalie Abbott, daughter of the home, poured tea.

Assisting during the afternoon and evening was Mrs. Glenn Tidball of this city, who was one of the attendants at the wedding 25 years ago. Mrs. Ray Lambert, the Misses Lambert and Miss Caroline Wells aided throughout the affair, which was in the nature of a reception. Dr. Abbott provided corsage bouquets for the group, as well as for Mrs. Abbott and for her mother, Mrs. George Wells.

It was recalled that Dr. J. A. Stevenson, former Santa Ana pastor, officiated at the Abbott-Wells wedding.

Section Members Have Luncheon In Advance of Program

Ebbs Book Review section members lunched at the Doris Kathryn Tuesday afternoon in advance of their final program of the season, an event which took place in the home of Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, 1522 North Broadway.

Every year the group anticipates the meeting at which Mrs. Mona Summers Smith gives a review, and her contribution to the program yesterday was a review of "The Ghost of Yankee Doodle," by Sidney Howard. Ethel Barrymore had the leading role in the play during its short run on Broadway last winter, it was explained. Guests were Mrs. L. H. ## Party Details Express Charm Of The Season

Summertime's bright hues were displayed to advantage yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Hubert Nall carried out a colorful motif at a luncheon bridge event which brought to a close her current series of parties.

Miss Frances Nall assisted her mother in receiving guests in their home, 2139 North Flower street. Pottery appointed the luncheon tables, which were in blue, yellow, orange or green with corresponding hues in flower centerpieces. One bouquet was of nasturtiums, one of blue violets, another white violets and a fourth, yellow violets.

Among those who sent flowers were Mrs. Harold Nelson and two invited guests not able to attend, Mrs. E. T. McFadden and Mrs. Harvey Gardner.

Mrs. C. E. Bressler, Mrs. Don Andrews and Mrs. Arthur Smith won prizes for their high scores in bridge. A special prize went to Mrs. C. P. England of Hollywood, former Phoenix, Ariz. friend of Mrs. Nall.

Invited to the event were Mesdames C. E. Bressler, Arthur Tra-dewick, Anton Segerstrom, H. G. Boulden, William Penn, Don Andrews, Arthur Smith, Robert Guild, R. A. ## Want to Know Why You're Constipated?

Would you give a million to shake off that dull, dopey, played-out feeling that often comes with common constipation? Then stop a minute and think.

What have you had to eat this week? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? Probably the reason you're constipated is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines which helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat some Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. This crunchy toasted cereal is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains both the intestinal tonic vitamin B, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. See if you don't get off your heels and on your toes! Kellogg's All-Bran is sold by every grocer.

CHAPTER I

JOSEPH HERENDEN SANDHAM was on top of the world. He sat in a low wicker chair on the afterdeck of his trim white yacht and extended his hand languidly for the aperitif that Smithers, his valet and body-servant, was about to give him. Over Smithers' shoulder he could see two stewards laying a gorgeous luncheon on a table that stood beneath a dark-green canopy. The central motif of the luncheon seemed to be pate de foie gras. On the deck near one leg of the luncheon table was a magnum of champagne in a silver ice-bucket. And a degree or so to the south-west of the ice-bucket reclined three tall streamlined blonds in shorts, and coats of suntan.

"Imagine," murmured Joseph Herenden Sandham, "this happening to me."

All at once one of the blonds drew back her doubled right fist and socked her nearest neighbor squarely on the button. Joseph noted this gesture and was faintly amused by it. Of course, in the ordinary way, he did not permit rowdiness aboard his yacht. But this was different. This was okedolfe because, Joseph knew, the girls were fighting over which one of them was to sit at the table and have lunch with him. Wherefore the sock was a kind of subtle flattery. He yawned and stretched out his hand further toward the aperitif that Smithers was holding.

"May the best woman win," he thought he heard himself mutter. So far as Joseph could see there was just one thing wrong with the setup. He had a slight headache. Nothing much, to be sure. Just an annoying little throbbing in back of his temples. He wished it would go away. It seemed to be affecting his eyes. The three beautiful blonds behind the ice-bucket looked a trifle vague and out of line. Even Smithers, standing so close to him, was getting somewhat dim and the aperitif he held wobbled in shadowy fashion just out of reach of Joseph's clutching fingers.

For a moment he toyed with the idea of sending Smithers below to get him a couple of aspirins and a pinch of soda bicarb. And then, very suddenly, Joseph Herenden Sandham woke up.

There wasn't any yacht. There wasn't any Smithers. There wasn't any streamlined blonds. There was, however, a shaft of sunlight that hit him directly in the face; a feeling as of the Ford factory working to capacity just in back of his forehead; and a red-headed girl with aquamarine eyes.

The red-headed girl spoke. "Well, Rip Van Winkle," she said, "I'm afraid you'll find things a bit changed."

JOSEPH made a hasty survey of his surroundings. In a vague way he perceived that he was in a bed in a large well-furnished room. The red-headed girl sat on the foot of the bed. He did not recognize the bed, the room or the girl. Wherefore he poised a hackneyed, but necessary, question on his lips and let her go.

"Wh-where am I?" he said.

"In bed," said the red-headed girl.

"Who's bed?"

"My Uncle Tyler's bed."

Joseph felt carefully beneath the covers.

"Your Uncle Tyler is here too?"

He inquired.

"Not this morning," said the girl.

"Oh! Where is your Uncle Tyler?"

"In Europe. As I was saying, Rip, you've got a lot of new things ahead of you. There's the Tri-Borough Bridge, for instance. There's . . ."

"Hey, just a minute. Who put me in this bed?"

"Simmons. I helped."

Illustrations by Walt Scott.

This was okedolfe because, Joseph knew, the girls were fighting over which one was to have lunch with him.

"Who's Simmons?"

"My uncle's caretaker."

"Ah, we're getting places."

"Where you?"

"Kelly Archer."

"What's that?"

"I said I was Kelly Archer. Like it?"

Joe was silent a moment.

"Look here, Kelly," he said finally, "we're shooting at cross purposes. Suppose we begin at the beginning. Now then! What country is this?"

"We think it's America. But we hesitate to commit ourselves."

"America, eh? Great old place, that. Glad to be here. What part of America?"

"Connecticut. Ever heard of it?"

Joe nodded. "That checks. I remember being in Connecticut."

"So you're beginning to remember, are you? Feel in the back of your head and see if you can fish out your name."

"Name?" said Joe. "That's easy. It's Sandham. Joe Sandham. Things are coming back to me."

And then, all at once, they did—in a big way.

"Hal!" he said. "I've got it. I was in a smash-up last night!"

Kelly nodded. "Correct. So was I."

"Then you," said Joe, "were the one who hit me?"

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Bones. You hit me."

"Like the devil I did. It was all your fault. You came around that corner going 80 per and . . ."

"Like the devil you didn't. You were 'way over on the left-hand side of the road picking daisies or something. And I wasn't going 80. More like a mid-Victorian 40. And let me tell you something else, Mr. Joseph Sandham. If I hadn't put on my brakes like that—she snapped her fingers—"you'd have waked up in either a hospital or a morgue this morning. And as for that truck thing you were driving, it would have been a jigsaw puzzle."

"All right, all right," Joe said wearily. "What happened next?"

"Well, to begin with, I moved you out of the driver's seat and you were heavy as lead. Then I got in and drove that truck thing, with you in it, over here."

"What about your own car?"

She shook her head. "Wouldn't you like to see it?"

"No, thank you. I'll pass."

Through the Garden Gate

With MARAH ADAMS

If you are one of the fortunate persons who will spend this coming Sunday in Sequoia National Park you may witness the dedication of the first giant Sequoia to be named in honor of a woman, Susan B. Anthony, pioneer in the fight for women's rights.

The tree will be dedicated to observe the 118th anniversary of the birth of Miss Anthony. Other trees in the district have been named in honor of great men. The forest giant chosen is more than 3000 years old, is 262 feet high and has an average diameter of 20 feet.

Selected by the Department of the Interior, the tree will be a living tribute to Miss Anthony who made equal rights for women possible. The memorial tree stands well above the trees surrounding it. The park is said to be especially beautiful at the present time with forests and roadsides bright with wild flowers.

June was marked by an event which will be of interest to flower and garden lovers. Nearly 100 persons returned to America a short time ago after a tour of a number of European countries where they spent six weeks visiting famous gardens such as the of Queen Wilhelmina in Holland and the Holland gardens of the former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany at the "Huis te Doorn" home of the former ruler.

A garden tour which included a visit to the famous Chelsea show of the Royal Horticultural society of England and the annual flower show of the National Horticultural society of France in Paris, must have been filled with exciting days. The trip was sponsored by the Horticultural society of New York.

In the "Spanish Gypsy" George Eliot says: You love the Roses—so do I, I wish The sky would rain down Roses, as they rain From off the shaken bush. Why will it not? Then all the valley would be pink and white.

As feathers, smelling sweet; and it would be Like sleeping and like waking, all at once!

The rose is mentioned frequently by both ancient and modern authors. In the Bible it is mentioned twice. Once as in the Song of Solomon at the "Rose of Sharon" which is supposed to have been the narcissus or some other bulbous plant, and again in Isaiah where it is prophesied that the "desert shall blossom as the rose."

One of the ancestors of the rose as we know it today is the Damask Rose, a fragrant pink blossom which is the source of the almost priceless "attar of roses." Another fragrant ancestor is the "Cabbage Rose." Many of the yellow, copper and gold roses are hybrids of the Austrian Briar rose which has no fragrance.

Tea roses came from the Orient and the Lady Hillingdon, a lovely tea rose, is still popular in the modern rose garden. The modern rose is a complex hybrid.

Here are some of the most dependable everblooming varieties, arranged in colors: Dark Red—Ami Quinard, Gruss au Teplitz. Bright Red—E. G. Hill, Etoile de France. Pink—Lady Alice Stanley, Radiance. Yellow—Souvenir de Claudius Paret, Ville de Paris. Orange—Talisman, Duchess of Wellington. White—Double White Killarney.

A medium soil, not too light, and not too heavy, is the best soil for roses. If your soil is heavy clay, add peat moss or coarse sand. If your soil is too light, the addition of humus will make it satisfactory for roses.

Bone meal is an excellent fertilizer for roses. Use 10 pounds to every 100 feet of bed. Mixing it thoroughly with the soil.

Not a rendezvous with some gent from Fair Harvard?" She nodded. "Sort of."

"What do you mean, sort of?" "Well," said Kelly, "I was on my way to meet Gilbert."

"Gilbert, eh? Who's Gilbert, for Pete's sake?"

"Gilbert Mallow. My fiancé. You know, the man I'm going to marry."

NEW VARIETIES OF GERANIUMS ARE AVAILABLE

The popularity of the geranium has been growing steadily the past few years. The plant is of South African origin. The common name "geranium" comes from a Greek word meaning "crane's bill" because of the resemblance of the seed pod to the bill of a crane. The plants have been grown in gardens for the past 200 years and the genus name is pelargonium.

Geraniums include about 250 varieties developed by growers. They are in four classes, the common variety used in beds and for hedges; the ivy leaved geranium; and the Martha Washingtons commonly called by the genus name pelargonium; the rose and nutmeg geraniums the leaves of which are strongly scented.

Following are some of the newer varieties:

Common Geraniums

Missouri—Large, scarlet, double flowers.

Salmon Ideal—Deep salmon, semi-double.

Radio Red—Dark velvety red, double.

Los Angeles—Large double flowers; color of American beauty rose.

California—Immense trusses; delicate rose color combined with scarlet.

White Madonna—Best double white.

Maxine Kovalesky—Light orange; one of the most popular.

L'Amour—One of the finest of all single whites.

Delight—Glowing salmon with touch of scarlet.

El Rey—Orange vermillion (new color in geraniums), single.

Novelties

Stars and Stripes—Double white with red stripes.

Poinsettia geranium—Brilliant scarlet; petals shaped like miniature poinsettias.

Pelargonium echinatum—Only succulent in the pelargonium family; has thorns on stalk; flowers small, perfect; white with red blotches.

Intensity—Brilliant double scarlet.

Variegated foliage ivy—Green and white, tinted pink in sun, pink flowers.

Alliance—Old variety, soft pink flowers, buds like miniature rose bud.

Enchantment—Light pink, pencilled around edge of petals with deep pink.

Leopard—Luxuriant colors of almost purple and crimson blotches.

Etincelant—Intense orange scarlet; flowers extra large.

Charles Turner—Best known ivy geranium; deep bright rosy-pink, large flowers.

Orange County Gardening

By Mrs. H. Cardoza Sloan, Corona Del Mar

Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

The first thought which drifted into my awakening consciousness this morning was that it was Sunday, a Sunday in June. And my memory drifted back to the June Sundays that were celebrated as "Children's Day" in my youth.

Sweet June mornings, with fragrance of blossoming trees and gardens floating in through the open church windows, mingling with the meadowy scent of the white field daisies which predominated in the flowers massed for decoration. Mama, wearing a little black straw bonnet trimmed with small pink roses, the velvet ribbons tied beneath her pretty chin, and languidly swaying against the warm air a black fan painted with delicate flower sprays. (I have that fan yet among my treasures.) Sometimes there were canaries in cages, warbling happily all through the service. And almost always the choir sang a lovely anthem.

"There's a home for little children Above the bright blue sky—"

Sunday in June

This June Sunday morning the daisies are white in New England fields and meadows, a pest to farmers, perhaps, but such a lovely pest, their snowy white petals and golden centers making them truly the "day's eye" from which they take their name of daisy.

To the botanists they belong to the chrysanthemum family, being chrysanthemum leucanthemum. Governor Lindcott of old Salem Colony is said to have been the first to have brought the plant to this country, little thinking it would escape from gardens to overrun the countryside.

One spring I saw these white daisies blossoming in South Georgia, and was interested afterward to read that the trail of Sherman's march from Atlanta to the sea could be traced by the white field daisies sown from seed in the northern hay which was fed to the horses.

The daisy petalled flowers all have an air of thriftiness and cheerfulness. I am especially fond of the white and yellow marguerites so often grown in our California gardens. The Shasta daisy is California's contribution to the daisy tribe, and if you think the old single form commonplace, try the newer double, a handsome shaggy-petalled pure white flower.

Lemon Day Lily

If June was the month of daisies in the meadows, it was in old gardens the month of that beloved plant, the lemon day lily.

The lemon day lily (hemerocallis flava) and the tawny day lily (hemerocallis fulva) were the first of the species brought from Asia to European countries many centuries ago. They grew in the very first gardens of the colonists in New England, and to this day the lemon day lily is sweet in any garden border.

But the twentieth century has given us unbelievably splendid and beautiful hybrids of the daylilies, so lovely to look at and so easy to grow that they should be a part of the planting in every perennial garden.

Some are dwarf, some of medium height, some reach upward four feet or more. In color they range from pale yellow to deep gold, through the oranges and tawny orange reds to the newest and rarest varieties in deep maroon, soft rose-pink, even to bi-colors. Some have markings of green or maroon; some have petals fluted or frilled; some have branching heads with twenty-five or more flowers to a single stem.

The name "hemerocallis" means "Beautiful for a day," since the individual flowers are of short life. But a healthy clump will produce a long succession of blooms. Moreover, these hybrids come into bloom at different times, so that one may choose a planting which will give flowers all summer long.

There are some two hundred of these new hybrids offered by specialists. In the "Flower Grower" for June is an interesting article on the day lilies which delightfully describes many of them, and suggests attractive plantings. Such as the favorite Hyperion, with large, light lemon-yellow lily blooms grown with lavender and white phlox with blackish purple petunias at its feet.

There are many of these charming combinations. Just to read them will make you long to duplicate them in your own garden.

Should this lead to your planting some of the new day lilies in your own borders it will be the means of bringing you a joy and pleasure which will increase with the years as your lilies grow and multiply and bloom in glory.

And somewhere find a spot where the old lemon day lily may lift its modest pale yellow blooms, and spill its old-time fragrance on the June air.

Rare Plants

Members of Santa Ana Garden Section who visited the conservatories of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Ross at Newport last week were much intrigued by a sort of vining shrub with odd blossoms, which they were amazed to learn was an hibiscus.

It is a rare and beautiful species, grown in greenhouses in cold countries, and out of doors in the American tropics, but the Rosses are growing it successfully in an unheated cloth house. Its native home is tropical Africa and its name is Hibiscus Schizopetalus. The name signifies that the petals are finely cut, as indeed they are, which it is growing.

and in addition to this they are strongly recurved, while the stamens hang some two inches below the petals, and the flowers are pendant on long, jointed stems.

Except for the characteristic stamens it in no way resembles the hibiscus flower. The color is a rosy pink, the blossoms quite daisy-like in shape. It is a tall shrub with drooping branches, the slenderness of growth probably emphasized by the conditions under which it is growing.

can grow radishes successfully. Being an obliging plant, they really need no care at all, and will take root almost immediately. Like anything else, however, a little care will go a long way in producing a better root. One bit of care is necessary—sow them thinly, and then thin them out in the rows, otherwise you will have uneven, straggly roots.

There are dozens of good varieties to choose from, and you can hardly go wrong if you buy from a reliable seedman. They differ in color, size and season, and you must be sure just when you want them when making a selection.

Where is the fire and the promise.
Where is the revival of hope,
Where is the turf fan's oasis,
In Hawkeye—direct off the dope!
"Hawkeye brings home the bacon, the chipped beef or the vegetable plate, according to your tastes," chuckled the noted maestro of the turf. "He pleases all," he concluded modestly.

A check-up disclosed that this was indeed so, most undeniably so, being merely simple statements of salient fact. Hawkeye fans point proudly to his long and lustrous record as leading handicapper, bar none, and to the fact that Hawkeye horses always win. Needless to say, his astute play for yesterday, Kumbreh, won the place and show ends of his across the board wager, but missed the straight end through an error in timing, thus causing a loss of one coconut.

The astute play for today: Two coconuts across the board on Golden Nut in the eighth race.

Hay Market
LOS ANGELES, June 23.—(UP)—The hay market advanced 1/4 to 1/2 today to the highest levels since March 2 in the most active trading since October 29.

Most significant, according to experts, was activity and strength in railroad stocks. New York Central was the most active issue on the board. Other active rails included Southern Pacific and Santa Fe. The latter at its high of 32, was up nearly 3 points. Norfolk & Western reached 15 1/2.

The railroads in railroad issues cut short a brief interval of profit-taking and sent shorts scurrying to cover. For a time the tape was 6 minutes behind, but was abreast of the market near the close.

Railroad news improved. Leading roads issued more favorable reports and car loadings pointed higher.

Another rise in steel scrap at Pittsburgh the third in as many days, and expanded activity in the Worth street textile market were other favorable factors.

Despite favorable news, today's strength and activity was not expected in the financial district. Wall Street, caught under-staffed, was strewn with work, but the pickup was welcomed since it brought the first profits since early in the year.

Highest grade industrial shares made new highs on their recovery. U. S. Steel touched 5 1/4 up 3/4; Bethlehem 5 1/4 up 3/4; Allied Chemical 1 1/2 up 1/4; Union Carbide 1 1/2 up 1/4; Coca Cola 1 1/2 up 1/4; and a new high: Westinghouse Electric 3 1/2 up 1/4 and Owens Illinois Glass 6 1/2 up 1/4.

DRIVE CAREFULLY -SAVE A LIFE-

THE FOLLOWER'S GLORY

Because all men seem to be born with some mechanism which periodically produces an impulse to guide others, words directed to "followers" rarely find any listeners. The followers always are the other people.

Consequently the chances are that recent remarks of the president of an eastern college died in his listeners' minds before the echoes died on the air. He simply observed that "equal to the call of leadership is the call to the company of those who follow."

Obviously, there are no leaders without followers. The leader is powerless without allegiance, and he is at every follower's mercy. He is made by his following, and he is broken by it.

There is little individual glory for the follower, and this is a pity in these times of spectacular leaders. Man thrives on dreams of glory, and if every man could be made to recognize the power that is his simply as a follower, and every leader's and follower's independence upon him, more great leaders would arise and there would be more following done in the right direction.

"To have great poets," Walt Whitman reminded, "we must have great audiences, too."

EAR-MARKS OF HONESTY

There probably are more organizations for the preservation of this and that, which actually are out for the accomplishment of ends that have nothing to do with the ones that are slated, than there ever were before in the history of the country.

Scratch what appears to be a warrior for human rights and you find instead a warrior against Candidate Joe Doaks, Officeholder Fred Jones, or one of the two leading political parties. And sometimes you find a warrior against the whole country.

Thus, when a group appears which bears unusual ear-marks of a natural inability to agree on a common ulterior motive, that's news. The chances are that such a body means what it says.

A national organization has appeared which calls itself simply "National Re-dedication." Sponsors describe its purpose as the stimulation of the nation's faith in the principles of democracy, and the re-dedication of Americans to the cause of preserving their democratic rights.

Consider the personnel: The director is a poet, Herman Hagedorn. Discovered among others on the committee are Owen D. Young, Dan Beard, Mary E. Wooley, Herbert Hoover, Alf M. Landon and Norman Thomas.

PERILS OF SUMMER

For the benefit of those persons who have jobs to take vacations from this summer the United States Public Health Service has issued a list of hints for the preservation of health away from the office.

Maybe it doesn't mean a thing to you and if it doesn't the hints are for those who take such warnings into consideration.

The service advises:

Wear light clothing, but watch out for the sun.

Be careful of the food you eat and the water you drink.

Protect your eyes.

Avoid mosquitoes, flies and wood ticks. Drink salty water in hot weather.

Which is all right as far as it goes. But also, vacationists, if you want to keep your health:

Don't give lifts to hitch-hikers. Don't accept them.

Don't use tree-stumps as ash trays.

Don't tell the cop the traffic rules in your town make more sense.

Don't try to carry away the hotel towels. Don't tell your wife how she looks in "knickers".

After taking all the above into consideration and you still want to take a vacation, ...well you're on your own.

BE YOUR OWN FIRE PREVENTER

Every factory periodically is inspected for fire hazards, by men fully conversant with what to look for and what to do when dangers are discovered. You can easily do the same thing for your own home, and no rigorous course of training is necessary to fit you for it.

The great bulk of home fires originate from the simplest and most obvious fire hazards. Here are a few of them: Accumulations of old papers, clothing and other junk; improper storage of gasoline and other inflammable liquids; defects in heating plants and electrical appliances; amateur repairs of electric cords and fuse boxes.

It takes no expert to quickly and effectively eliminate such hazards as these. Keep paint, varnish and inflammable liquids in covered metal or glass containers and store them well away from heat and fire. And if heating or other household appliances give trouble, local experts will be glad to repair them inexpensively.

Fire prevention isn't much of a job, a few minutes each week or so is sufficient to accomplish it. And that little effort may save your home from destruction, or even your family and yourself from a horrible death. Fire prevention shouldn't be regarded as a bothersome task. It is a duty which pays tremendous dividends. And never forget that it's better to prevent a fire than to stand around and hope the fire department will be able to extinguish the blaze before everything you possess is destroyed.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

By King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—It's a sore election year subject within AAA that Mr. Wallace's dollar-threshing machine is not spreading the long green manna as per schedule.

His benefit payment thresher is running so far behind estimates, and behind last year expenditures, that the mail order houses have been telephoning to officials here to find out what has happened. (They did not get an answer).

AAA announced early this year March payments would be $100 millions; so would April. Official figures now available disclose March was only $80 millions; so was April. Official figures go further, and the official tongue is stiller, even off the record, yet it is evident May was only about $45 millions; June $40 millions.

Total for the year will run no more than $300 millions compared with $370 last year.

The trouble is prices were high at planting time last year. Many a farmer who signed for the 1937 program, changed his mind, decided to plant what he wanted to, is not now getting any money.

The manna deficiency may in part be made up by commodity credit corporation loans, but the situation is far from what Mrs. Wallace would like to have it in an election year in the farm belt.

The lid has been clamped down hard on further estimating. However, interested business, statesmen and farmers may accept the following farm spending prospectus for the coming six months as a reasonably authoritative guide to what is now expected: (In millions of dollars)

The LaFollette committee is promising a "show after July 4 that will make Independence Day look small." It is going into little steel in a large manner. Sheriffs, mayors and employers association witnesses from Canton, Warren, Youngstown and Cleveland have been quietly subpoenaed. Principal fish to be fried are Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

A deal which would send Treas. Sec. Morgenthau to the late Sen. Copeland's chair and move Joe Kennedy into the treasuryship has been discussed among the lofty in the senatorial circle. Those nearest the principals have doubted it. Morgenthau likes the treasury, would not like the senate; Kennedy would like the senate; Kennedy would like the treasury.

Few wanted the job of administrator of the wage-hour law. The chances of successful administration of the act were not inviting, for one thing.

But, more important, it appeared the administrator may not only have to administer the law, but Madame Secretary Perkins as well.

One eminent ex-NRA official, in a moment of weakness, went over to see Miss Perkins before she sailed for Europe, in hopes that he might lift himself up for the position.

He did so because he had received intimations from the White House that he was the kind of man they were looking for. Miss Perkins did not think so. She told him flatly she did not think he was in sympathy with the purposes of the act as she understood them and would use her influence to keep him from getting it.

This situation may prove to be more important than the provisions of the act itself, because of the known views of the labor secretary in reference to wage differentials, CIO, etc.

An indication of what may be coming lies in Miss Perkins' unofficial administration of the Walsh-Healey act. In the 16 months the government has defined 15 industries under that law requiring government contractors to pay the prevailing wage. Singularly, 11 of the 15 are in the textile industry so that in substance, the way the law has been worked out, it applies almost exclusively to textiles.

The PWA is getting election-conscious. Latest batch of projects was issued in alphabetical order rather than by states. News-men asked PWA officials to make the state division which has always heretofore been made in PWA allotments, but officials frankly said they did not wish to invite comparisons between the states.

Some of the Tennessee lawyers who heard State Secretary Hull's speech to their bar association, approached him afterward and asked permission to adopt a resolution endorsing him for the 1940 presidential nomination. He asked them not to do it.

Hull tells his friends 1940 is too far off and he is too busy to think about it.

The carriage purchased by Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette for their planned escape from the revolutionary mob's fury contained a clothes press, a wine cellar, a cupboard for foods and a silver dinner service, as well as accommodations for six members of the family and servants.

SUMMER VACATIONS

Where are you going for the summer? What kind of place are you going to select for the family to spend two and maybe three months in? It is not enough to find a place that is cheap, where clothes do not matter, and which is near enough for father to visit week ends. Certain other things have to be considered.

What are the children going to do? If you have chosen a farm are the children to be allowed to work with the men? Are the farm family the kind of people who will welcome eager children into the garden and barn and field, and give them real work with responsibility? If they are not, and you take the children there, you will not enjoy the summer and the children will not benefit from their stay.

Is it the shore? What kind of people, especially what sort of children are they to live with? Do you want to dress your children as those children are dressed? Do you want them to spend their days as those children do? Will your children get on well with the others, or will they get over social questions, manners and methods of play? It is important that the children fit into the group. Otherwise vacation will be a nightmare.

How about the social standards? Are they above or below your own? Either difference will make you unhappy. It is distressing in the extreme to try to live beyond your means, spiritual or material. It is a sure way to spoil a vacation. And if the standards are lower than yours you will suffer in body and spirit. Vacation should bring one rest of body and peace of mind.

Most people find pleasure in some one sort of recreation, such as swimming, golf, tennis, boating, hiking. If the members of the family are divided in interests this must be considered. If father loves golf, and there is none; if mother loves to swim, and there is no swimming; if the children love to ride, and there are no horses, things will not be harmonious. Better take a pencil and paper and set down the essentials—the must-haves, then the wishes. Try to consider every member of the family, but don't give up because you cannot have one hundred percent.

These days there are usually enough opportunities for everybody to enjoy within reaching distance. Roads are good and cars are handy. There is dancing in the good clubs for young people; swimming in the near-by lake, or shore; study clubs close by. It is usually possible with a little thought to give each one of the family his share of fun.

Don't go to a place because it is stylish; don't go to a place because you might meet social lights; don't take children where agree to take a place without seeing it first and assuring yourself of the facts. Words have different meanings for different people.

Go where you can have the most fun for the least effort and leave your prejudices behind you. Either take the dog and the cat along, or arrange for their care with somebody who will take the responsibility seriously. Then go and forget about home and work and duty. Summer was made for vacationers.

A GRUDGING ASSENT

By HARLEY L. LUTZ

Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University

The President was quite peevish about the tax bill in his address at Arthurdale. After keeping the country in suspense until almost the last moment of the ten days permitted by the constitution for his signing or vetoing, he announced in the presence of a high school graduating class and their friends that he would do neither. Nevertheless, the bill became a law by his assent, although it was given grudgingly and in a back-handed way.

This action means that while the President may have believed that the bill was not good enough to sign, he knew that it was too good to veto. He expressed the hope that its changes would be helpful to business, but the very brief reference to his all-important subject suggests either that he was skeptical of such result or that he deemed it a matter of small consequence. So much of the address was devoted to finding fault with the bill that it was really an unsigned veto message. In effect, Mr. Roosevelt did veto it, while permitting it to become a law unsigned. The burden of his criticism was a re-hash of his own peculiar arguments for the worst and most objectionable features of the tax law which was superseded by the new Revenue Act of 1938.

These threadbare arguments were answered fully in the Senate, by Senator Harrison, on the day following the Arthurdale unsigned veto message. In his desire to preserve the form of party loyalty, while criticizing the President's views, the Senator explained that Mr. Roosevelt had been misinformed about the bill. It was the same kind of misinformation of which he became possessed two years ago when he wrote the message demanding the undistributed profits tax. Evidently he has not yet been set right on this subject, otherwise he would not persist in advocating a tax which no one else is willing to defend.

He was evidently misinformed, also, regarding the provisions relative to improper accumulation of surplus for the purpose of avoiding surtax. Mr. Roosevelt's view of the door to the use of large, closely held corporations as a vehicle, by the small number of their owners, in order to avoid legitimate income tax.

Senator Harrison shattered this myth. He pointed out that the earlier drastic provisions dealing with improper surplus accumulation had been further strengthened by new language which puts the burden of proof on the taxpayer to show that his large surplus is not being accumulated for the purpose of enabling some one to avoid surtax. This does not look very much like opening a door to anything or to anybody except the tax collector.

It was distinctly heartening to have the Senator say a good word for the family corporation. The usual criticism of the large corporation is that it so completely divorces owner responsibility from management. The directors determine policy, while the stockholders, who would not know any of the directors at sight, are interested in policy only as it produces dividends. As equity owners they are, in the end, responsible for policy, yet they have neither active concern for, nor effective voice in, management. All of this the family corporation avoids. Its stockholders know each other, they know the directors and managers, they fully understand the business policy. In many respects that are socially important, the family corporation is an ideal form of business organization. Yet we find this form singled out for attack, both directly and by innuendo, by one who takes particular pride in his own sure sense of social values.

Fellow Citizens:

The German purge of innocent, inoffensive Jews violates all humanitarian principles. It is with-out parallel, unless we retrace our thoughts to the first centuries of the Christian era, when Christians were persecuted wholesale, thrown to wild beasts, burned at the stake, and tortured in every conceivable way possible.

The underlying motive of Hitler's insane Jewish persecution doubtless is to confiscate the property and wealth of those loyal citizens, who accumulated their wealth when Jews and Gentiles lived together in peace and harmony. In the long run Germany will be the loser—for stabbing the genius that in a large measure created her wealth.

Under a totalitarian government any religious or racial differences may be made the alibi for confiscating property and

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—Three important summer investigations are about to begin under the almost unlimited power of congressional inquiry. That power is to examine into the affairs of men or institutions which are under criticism at the bar of public opinion. Sometimes the verdict plus the disclosures of the trial result in what is in practical effect a sentence of economic pains and penalties or even death.

But in these trials the accused has none of the defensive rights guaranteed in almost every other system of justice. They are conducted by committees, usually composed of these cases, also composed of and now sure to be dominated by executive officers. These are the judges who arrive at the verdict. They are also the prosecutors, if not the accusers. Nobody ever heard of that kind of arrangement in any accepted system of justice.

The accused can't call any witnesses or confront or cross-examine any witnesses against him. If what he says in his own defense is not acceptable to the inquisition, it can tell him to sit down and shut up. If he refuses to answer, the committee can send him to jail for contempt. This also conforms to no other recognized system of justice.

Finally, there is no pretense that the judges are impartial. They are politicians seeking to use these extraordinary powers, not primarily to produce a review of all pertinent facts, but primarily to bolster their own particular political pretensions by bringing out all the facts that serve that end and suppressing or minimizing all others. In one of these inquiries they are not only politicians, but dogmatic administrative zealots, intent on taking apart the American economic pattern and putting it together again on some modified form of European collectivism.

They will use their inquisitorial power not to inquire whether this should be done, but only to argue that it must be done. The truth has less chance before these three coming summer inquiries than Joan of Arc in her trial and execution before the Bishop of Beauvais, than a French Royalist before the French Tribunes of the Terror, or than Jesus before Caiaphas.

They are being hastened onto the stage in the heat of the bitterest political campaign of recent years. It is not the subject of these inquiries which are really to be tried before the public. It is the pretensions of the inquisitors themselves. Does anybody suppose they are not going to acquit themselves and convict all opposition?

This political three ring circus has in ring one the TVA inquisition, entirely dominated by Third New Dealers. The Third New Deal is violently and repeatedly on record as idolizing TVA and condemning its opponents. It is certain to be a bath of whitewash for TVA and of mud for its opponents.

In ring three is the political investigation of misuse of relief funds, especially under WPA. It is also smothered under New Deal domination and influence. It is literally impossible to suppose that there will be any revelation or, indeed, any actual procedure.

The scintillating middle ring—the "monopoly" investigation—a mass production of witch-finding with a St. Bartholomew's massacre of all business opponents of the Third New Deal at the end.

Here Congress clearly abdicated its own control of the Executive by giving the President disposition of 80 per cent of the appropriation. It surrendered its own peculiar and exclusive inquisitorial power to the Executive—who otherwise has it not—by opening the way to appointment of five financial anti-business Executive officials and adding to them two anti-business Senators and one anti-business Representative—a holy trinity of the American economic system packed 8 to 1 against it. It will be exactly like 8 minks turned loose in an unprotected chicken coop. It is a prostitution of the power functions of government and a failure to produce essential facts on vital issues at a crisis in our history.

HERE AND THERE

A soaring sailplane, with a 72-foot wingspread, recently was built in California. The wings are of the full cantilever gull type.

It is reported the most common cause of accidents recently has been the lack of concentration on the part of the driver.

When it is necessary to stop, you can save your brakes a great deal by having the engine help slow the car down. In other words, put your brakes on while the clutch is in.

The water in a battery should be checked at least every three weeks. A coating of vaseline is helpful in preventing corrosion.

Sugar beets are a great crop stimulator. After ground has been used for them, other crops are found to increase 50 to 80 per cent in tonnage.

Almost 1000 miles of standard gauge railroad track was laid in France during the World War, with materials shipped from America.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

NO SECRET MYSTERIES ABOUT BUSINESS

In the Book, "The Principles Men Live By," Harry Scherman makes the statement "there are no esoteric (secret) mysteries about the conduct of business. It can be grasped by the most ordinary intelligence."

Business and economics are not difficult to understand provided the student starts with simple principles. And the simple principles are, equal rules for all, equality of exchange, no interference with any man's rights to sell his services to the world's highest bidder.

We only get confused on business when we attempt to, by laws, restrict free exchanges. It is then when business becomes complicated and difficult to understand. Of course, it is impossible to be consistent and not follow a universal rule. Of course, it is impossible to understand business when we make laws to protect certain groups, when we make laws making it a crime to work; when we make laws making it a crime to sell cheap; when we make it a law that people who destroy wealth and do not produce will be rewarded for keeping things scarce. No one in the world can ever understand business and economics with this kind of theories.

And the reason people become confused and consent to this kind of thing is simply because they do not understand that other people have rights. They do not understand the very foundation of Christianity and democracy. They come to believe that the welfare of one individual or one group is paramount over the general welfare.

If the people realized that the public interest must eternally come before the interest of any individual, then these customs and laws that hinder and obstruct the free flow of exchanges would not be tolerated and would not confuse the people as a whole.

Mr. Scherman very clearly points out that our only hope of improving our social and economic condition is by a concerted effort to inform people generally on the very fundamental of social problems.

What Can You Do?

Under the chapter of what each individual can do to contribute to bringing about a better social condition, the author of the book says, "Your actions, whether for good or ill, weigh as much as the next man's in the final count. You can be happily aware that in this one respect, of continuously demonstrating your dependability, you are playing your part every day in this great social drama being run off in time, and playing it well—as the records set forth in this book conclusively show."

CONTENT LIKE A LIZARD

Harry Scherman, author of "Promises Men Live By," very aptly describes the apathy of the individuals on attempting to understand economic and political problems. On this subject he says, "No need to be specific about these shortcomings; they can be summed up in one statement: like a little lizard motionless in the sun, you are content to rest in a state of almost complete unawareness of the actualities of the larger world you live in. You let habit blind you as to what goes on. You have hardly a glimmer of the certain truth that your own economic benefit may best be served in every way by considering the economic benefit of everybody. Because of this lack, you think only—and work only all your life—for what appears to be your own trivial little economic benefit. By this thorough-going economic unintelligence, you intensify all the ancient elements of anarchy in our society. You are too often inclined to blame your rulers for this. Blame yourself! Your rulers in these days are truly your servants, no longer your masters. They become your masters only by guilting you—false servants that so often they are! But if you can be guiled, who is to blame—you or they?"

The necessity of arousing people, as so well stated above, is the reason this column is constantly challenging customs and beliefs and habits that interfere with the universal rule being the Golden Rule and any laws that tend to interfere with a free and natural exchange of the comforts of life.

MEDIUM OF EXCHANGE, MEASURE OF VALUE

A friend of the writer, who is a very keen student of money, contends that credit should be used as a medium of exchange and real money should be used as a measure of value.

And money is something of real value. It is impossible to measure value, without something of value. It seems difficult to see any flaw in the above expression that credit should be used as a medium of exchange and money the measure of value.

MEXICAN ABUNDANCE

President Cardenas admitted Sunday that the crops in Mexico are not what they used to be. It seems they had a theory that if they divided up the big farms among the peons the grateful peonism would work harder and raise bigger and better crops.

It has not worked out that way. As an independent landowner and master of his own fate the peon finds himself eminently satisfied if his acres produce enough corn, garbanzos and chili to feed the family through the year. A few chickens will raise themselves, a tobacco plant or two—sometimes a marijuana bush, and the household is living in the lap of plenty. That is his theory of abundance. Why should the peon trouble himself to raise more?

From some points of view the peon is a smart man. At least his philosophy keeps him happy. But it does not please President Cardenas. The President is plagued with oil company demands for payment, with railway labor demands for more wages, with sour notes from the holders of Mexican bonds, with the bills for keeping his government going—and all the revenues are shrinking. Agricultural production in Mexico has been going down for some years. Now that the oil business has gone to pot since the expropriation there is not much left.

Senator Cardenas wishes Mexican farm lands were back to their former production. He tells the peons they must get in and sweat. We do not know how to predict the result of his urging. But we do not forget that the peonians have a word for such advice—manana!—San Francisco Chronicle.
